SPECTACULAR PLANT FIRE Tuesday morning at the former Union Star and Refining Co. plant in Granite City. The fire was believed to have been started accidentally by workmen using cutting torches. High winds fanned the flames which gutted one building and damaged the roofs of two other buildings inside the plant complex. Units from three fire departments were required to bring the fire under control. (Press-Record Photo)

5 hurt at fire

Fire gutted one building and burned two other roofs, all at the Archer Daniels Midland Co. grain plant (formerly Union Star) near downtown Granite City Tuesday morning. Five firemen were injured fighting the blaze which was fanned by winds up to 40 miles per hour.

The first alarm sounded at 9:35 a.m. Tuesday and two more alarms were sounded within a short period of time. Four pumpers and the aerial truck from Granite City as well as one pumper from Madison and one from Venice were needed to bring the fire under control.

The fire was considered under control by 10:45 a.m., but firemen continued to extinguish flames until after noon. A crew remained on duty at the fire scene until 3 p.m., to keep the fire from rekindling.

The building which burned was located between 19th and 20th Streets on the west side of the plant. It was in the section

Ruling wrong -- supervisor

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Louis Whitsell, supervisor of Nameoki Township and a member of the Madison County Board, said Tuesday night that he would like to have someone file suit against him to test the validity of a recent attorney general's ruling that persons holding both positions are involved in a conflict of interest.

"I would hope if there is a suit, it will be in Madison County. It probably will be in Nameoki Township," the supervisor told a standing-room-only crowd in the town hall after the township's annual public hearing on the 1975-76 road and bridge budgets.

"I would like to be the one to test the opinion in court. I totally disagree with the attorney general's opinion. In order to settle this thing, some interested citizen would have to sue someone. Then it would go into court and both would have the right to appeal. It would go all the way to the (Illinois) Supreme Court," Whitsell said.

The supervisor explained Attorney General William J. Scott's ruling (that the two offices are not compatible and that a conflict exists in holding both) may have applied to the one case in Lake County which the attorney general was studying.

"I do not believe anybody in our county is in conflict. The

Revise form of ballot

Plans to reprint the ballots for the April 15 Third Ward Aldermanic election in Madison were announced at the Madison City Council meeting Tuesday.

Gary Novich, one of six independent candidates in the Third Ward, protested the layout of the sample ballots, contending that since he was the first to file as a candidate, his

"After the objections were raised, I met with Casper S. Niphonessan, our city attorney, and George Filcotti, our cor-

State views process at coke ovens

The degree of effectiveness of three different technologies for controlling coke oven charging emissions was demonstrated at the coke oven batteries of Granite City Steel Tuesday.

Officials of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and Granite City Air Pollution Control Board.

Main attention focused on a $2,250,000 automatic coal charging system which went into operation last year.

Its primary component is a larry car which contains potential charging smoke within the byproduct coke plant system. The car moves on rails back and forth on top of the coke ovens, with its operator in an air-conditioned cab.

This is only the second installation in the U. S. of the advanced new system, developed for the American Iron and Steel Institute working with the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. However, charging cars on new coke ovens utilize many of the features developed for the AISI car.

The demonstration was arranged by Dr. Donald F. Cairns, a Granite City Steel vice president. Those present included Dr. John Hudson, head of air pollution control for the Illinois EPA.

Even charging in most coke plants accounts for the major amount of emissions from all sources at such plants, authorities say. As a result, there is widespread interest throughout the steel industry in recently developed control systems.

The new coke oven control system at Granite City Steel grew out of an AISI program to seek a smokeless charging

Portell won't end sewage in drainage ditch

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Installation of a sewer pipe carrying raw sewage into the Nameoki stormwater drainage ditch is a "drastic emergency situation" that cannot be resolved until repairs are made to several major sanitary sewer breaks, Street Superintendent Lionel Portell told the Granite City Council Monday night.

Describing the recently installed drainage tile as a "relief valve," Portell said its removal before breaks can be repaired in nearby sanitary sewer lines would result in serious sewage backups into dozens of neighboring homes through basements, drains, showers, toilets or other plumbing facilities.

Portell defended his action in installing the pipe after Alderman Gerald Farnley of the Sixth Ward criticized the action and attempted unsuccessfully to obtain passage of a motion ordering Portell to remove the pipe.

Farnley told the council that the pipe drains raw sewage into the Nameoki ditch and creates a health hazard and offensive odors to which residents in his ward are objecting.

"My phone has been ringing off the wall with calls from people who object to this tile," Farnley said.

Farnley presented a motion that the Street Department be ordered to remove the pipe and repair in nearby sanitary sewer lines would result in serious sewage backups into dozens of neighboring homes through basements, drains, showers, toilets or other plumbing facilities.

The sewer pipe was installed March 7 by Street Department workers at a site about 400 feet south of Johnson Road on the west side of Nameoki ditch.

Portell told the council: "That pipe wasn't put in on the spur of the moment. We have had basements flooding in that area in periods of heavy rains. You can see the infiltration of the stormwater with sewage."

"There is no question that there's a sewer break. When it rains and water rises in Nameoki ditch, the pressure forces stormwater to infiltrate the sanitary lines."

"This washes sand and rock into the pumps and lift stations and causes congestion which backs up the water and sewage into the homes."

Farnley responded that the people are concerned over "what they can see" when sewage pours out of a pipe, and insisted again that the sewer pipe be removed.

Alderman Steve Basarich remarked that "I'd sure rather have that pipe there than have it backing up in my house."

Earmark funds for storm lines

An "escrow fund" of $50,000 was created by the Granite City Council Monday night to guarantee financing of stormwater drainage facilities along a four-block stretch of Franklin Avenue and in adjoining areas of Maryland Heights.

Action to provide funds for the project followed the appearance of a delegation of area residents for the second time to request relief from flooded streets that result from moderate to heavy rainfall.

The council at first agreed to set aside $40,000 for the work on a motion by Alderman Emerald Dawes of the Seventh Ward, but later increased the amount to $50,000 after City Engineer Monroe Brewer said his original estimate of cost could be higher.

Unanimous approval of Dawes' motion creating the fund followed a talk before the council by Ed Goodin, 3700 Franklin Ave., spokesman for an earlier council session. He said the delegation of Maryland Heights residents, in which he asked the city to "give us help" in solving drainage problems.

Goodin said the problem not only lies along Franklin Avenue (between Anson and Cottage avenues) but also on the intersecting streets of the area where water stands for long periods after even moderate rains.

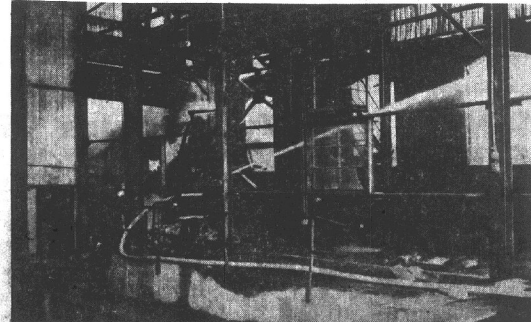

Mrs. Phyllis Brusatti, 2211 Manley Ave., also spoke as a representative of residents living on streets intersecting Franklin Avenue. She noted that the problem extends into a number of streets in the Maryland Heights subdivision and is not confined to Franklin Ave.

"If the action here tonight is only for Franklin Avenue, I am not at all satisfied," she told council members. "The entire area is entitled to help and our problems on the side streets are just as bad as those along Franklin."

Alderman Walter Norn, repeating a statement he made at an earlier council session, said the Franklin Avenue project is only "a piecemeal

Chouteau ok's budget, raises Estes' pay

Road and bridge budgets totaling $132,420 were approved by the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors Tuesday night following a public hearing attended by about 15 township residents.

The board made several changes in the budgets from the documents which were posted for public display, but managed to keep the total figure unchanged.

The board also approved a salary increase from the present $6,000 per year to $7,495 per year for Chouteau Township Highway Commissioner James Estes. Estes had requested a raise to $9,000, but the board members indicated they felt state law requires any highway commissioner earning $7,500 per year or more to work full-time.

Estes also is a full-time deputy with the Madison County Sheriff's Department. His pay is from town funds and the raise is not reflected in the budgets approved Tuesday night.

The board noticed that a $1,500 entry from the 1974-75 budget for storage shed rental had been repeated in the new budget, despite the fact that a new township highway garage has been constructed and the shed is no longer rented.

The auditors voted to transfer the $1,500 appropriation to administration to pay for heat, lighting and water in the new garage. Those items inadvertently had been left out of the new budget.

The tentative 1975-76 budget also failed to provide funds for telephone service to the garage, so the board transferred $300 from Estes' travel expenses into administration for that cost.

The transfer reduced the travel expenses from $1,500 to $1,200.

The revised documents are $33,420 higher than last year's budgets. The new budgets, with last year's totals in parenthesis, are: general road fund — $70,420 ($69,900); permanent road fund — $47,000 (none last year); equipment and building fund — $5,000 ($5,000); and Illinois municipal retirement $10,000 ($5,000).

After adjourning the public hearing, the board officially made the changes in the budget and approved the document on a unanimous vote.

Opinion was divided, however, on the issue of granting a raise to Estes.

which is being demolished by Invirex Corp. of New York City for ADM.

The fire was believed to have been started accidentally by workmen using cutting torches. "By the time we arrived, the fire was spreading rapidly through the building which had been saturated with corn oil for many years," a spokesman for the Granite City Fire Department said.

Several sections of the roof collapsed, endangering the firemen. The rapidly changing wind also presented dangers.

Traffic presented a major problem as hundreds of Quad-City area motorists drove to the fire. Police from Granite City, Madison and Venice were required to close all roads around the plant and to detour the traffic.

Sparks and hot embers from the flames were carried by the high winds to the roofs of several buildings, including the Granite City Board of Education office and Metro-East Industrial Supply Co., both at 20th and Adams Streets. Firemen watched the roofs of those buildings throughout the fire, but no additional fires developed.

About nine major pieces of equipment which were to be sold by Invirex were destroyed. Loss to the equipment was estimated at $100,000.

There was no loss to the building since it was being demolished.

Fire also developed in several tanks of oil which were left burning and flames continued from the tanks throughout the day Tuesday and into late Wednesday.

After the major portion of the fire had been extinguished, firemen had to dig through the rubble which had collapsed into the basement to try to locate small fires which continued to burn.

Granite City Fireman Walmer Schmidtke, 39, of 2829 Sunset Drive, suffered an abrasion to his forehead when he was struck by a falling piece of lumber. He was treated and x-rays were taken at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He was admitted for observation.

Other Granite City firemen

hurt included Mike Nesbit who injured his right wrist. J. Holder who suffered a nail in his right arm, and Everett Brown who was hurt when a large pipe fell on the back of his left leg. All were released after treatment at the hospital.

Venice fireman Gerald Sugg, 1300 Oriole St., Venice, also was hurt, suffering a two-inch burn to the inside of his left leg. He also was released.

A spokesman for the Granite City Fire Department yesterday issued a statement thanking the Madison and Venice Fire Departments for their assistance under the mutual aid pact local departments observe.

The spokesman also thanked the officials and employees of Invirex Corp., "who worked like beavers, helping us move fire hoses and fighting the fire. They were really terrific."

Granite City firemen faced more than the ADM fire during the day. While some crews were still at the corn plant, an alarm rang at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday for a fire in the garage of Robert Hoffman, 2813 Pershing Blvd.

Fire fighters were unable to open the garage door and had to cut a hole in it to fight the fire. They were on the scene 35 minutes.

The flames caused an estimated $1,000 damage to the garage and $500 damage to its contents. Boys who were seen nearby playing with matches and candles were believed to have started the fire.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Fire also broke out at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday at a tavern at 1306 Nineteenth St. One woman was overcome by smoke during the fire.

A leak in the oil line to the boiler was believed to have caused the fire and the thick smoke. Carla Parks, 1939 Rhodes St., Madison, a customer, was treated at the scene by an inhalator unit and was taken to the hospital. She was released after treatment.

Damage to the tavern, primarily from smoke, was estimated at $1,500. Firemen were there one hour and 15 minutes.

13 veterans back, Trojan nine will open year Tuesday

Trojan baseball Coach Ron Davis' Madison nine will open the 1975 season at home against Triad (Troy-St. Jacob-Marine) Tuesday, April 1, in hopes of improving last year's 6-11 record.

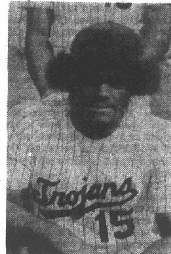

"It's going to be tough," says Davis. "We have 13 returning lettermen, but we lost a fine pitcher in Jon Henke through graduation, and last year's home run king Algie Crawford to Venice."

Heading the contingent of returnees is senior outfielder Cedric Wilson, who last season led the team in batting with his .340 average. He collected three triples, three doubles and one homer in 18 games. Wilson struck out only six times.

Aiding Madison's batting power also will be senior Steve McCunney at third base. Last year, he collected 16 hits and drove in 10 runs for the Trojans.

Returning also are seniors—Tim Flisk, pitcher; Darryl Franklin, pitcher; Mike Stanley, outfielder; Emmett Timmons Jr., catcher; and Harold Williams and Kevin Werner, pitcher.

CEDRIC WILSON

And sophomore—Pete Pecurka, first base.

Werner will aid the Trojan effort on the mound. The right-handed hurler had a 1-5 record in 1974 but struck out 30 batters in 75 innings.

"We have good batters and more depth in our pitching staff," summarizes Coach Davis as the 1975 diamond campaign draws near.

Weather adds to woes as 1st baseball game is lost 11-3

High winds, cold temperature and errors played important roles Monday in the baseball Warriors' season-opening 11-3 loss to Roxana at Wilson Park.

"We lost a lot of balls to the wind," notes GCHS South Mentor Coach Chapman.

"And the weather didn't help our fielding," he added.

Five errors gave Roxana four unearned runs and an 11-0 lead going into the bottom of the fifth inning.

The visitors had scored two runs in the first, four each in the second and fourth innings and one run in the fifth before Warrior relief pitcher Ray Smith took to the mound.

Smith relieved Kirk Chapman, who had pitched three innings in relief of starter Greg Terrell.

South was held to only one hit before Paul Muehl sparked his teammates with a home run in the fifth with no one on base.

Jim Jackson picked up the pace in the final inning, the seventh, by reaching first safely and advancing to second when Kevin Winans drew a walk.

Jackson scored on a single to centerfield by Smith. Winans added South's final run on Keith Moran's hit to left.

Roxana totaled 10 hits and one error. South was held to four hits.

MHS graduate's team tops Trojan trackmen

Madison High School track and field athletes opened the Trojans' 1975 season at Duplo during the weekend on a losing note, bowing 75-52 to the host team coached by Richard Bright.

"We lost in the distance events as I thought we would," Bright said.

Charles Steptoe, "but we also gave them extra points in the low hurdles and long jump."

The Trojans won the following events: 440-yard relay — Tom of Joe Young, Tyrone Burt, Van

Walker and Lamont Garrett (46.8); half-mile run — Stanley Brooks (2:17.4); 880-yard relay team of Warren Wagener, Burt, Walker and Young.

Quarter-mile dash — Garrett (58.8); 800-yard dash — Young (9.8); mile relay team of Daryl Hampton, Rodney Williams, Brooks and Garrett (3:54); and high jump — Williams (5.8).

Madison placed second in: 120 high hurdles — Tom Harris; 120 dash — Young; shot put — Darryl Maple; discus — Maple; triple jump — Garrett; and pole vault — Alfred Crawford.

Siebert wins funny car race

Eighteen-year-old Kevin Siebert at the wheel of the Kazmic Debris Vega funny car won top honors from among eight funny cars during the opening race of the United Drug Racers' Association this week at St. Louis International Raceway.

Siebert worked his way to the finals by defeating the Mind-bender funny car in 7.97 seconds and the Godwin and Cappel car in 7.55 seconds on the quarter-mile drag strip.

The final run pitted him against the popular Ron Nelson in a Vega.

Siebert won easily as Nelson's car lost power and had to be restarted. Nelson conceded and made a solo pass through the quarter mile, leaving Siebert a free run for the championship.

Despite the free run, Siebert made a fast pass in 7.72 seconds, finishing at 143 miles-per-hour.

For the third week in a row, the Underdog station wagon of Ray and Mike Crain, St. Louis, won street eliminator money, defeating Mark Coreaux in the Good Vibrations car from Alton.

Wall Schmidt of Granite City won the top eliminator bracket, defeating Oscar Bilbruck of East Alton in the finals. Thirty cars qualified for that category.

Steve Pearson was the winner of stock eliminator.

It was announced that weekly grudge racing facility, beginning April 2.

Cold prevents contests, meets

Cold weather and wind Tuesday forced cancellation of four high school sports activities in the Quad-City area.

For the second year in a row, a season-opening baseball clash between GCHS North and Breese Mater Dei was thwarted by the weather and will not be rescheduled.

Postponed Tuesday were: a triangular track meet at O'Fallon between the host school, GCHS North and Collinsville; a Madison High School tennis meet at East St. Louis; and a sophomore basketball game here between GCHS North and Edwardsville.

Plans to reschedule these three events have not been completed.

Soccer openings for boys 6, 7

The YMCA's Soccer Association 1975 boys' soccer competition began two weeks ago for most participating divisions, but a Pee Wee division, for boys 6-7, is still being formed in time for an April 5-6 season under way.

David Favier, president of the association, says at least six more players are needed in the Pee Wee Division to fill team rosters before the spring schedule can be completed.

He asks that the families of boys interested in playing soccer in the 6-7 age group contact the Tri-City Area YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave., 876-7200.

5 vie for Trojan singles positions

A scheduled tennis meet between Madison High School and Macoupolis on Monday was postponed and the plan is not to reschedule it.

Trojan Coach Dan Kostenki reports his players are eager to get the 1975 season under way, and that those still vying for top singles starting spots include Jerry Verba, Patrick Winston, Mike Woods, William Garrett and Ron Jones.

Jones has joined the team after completing a season of basketball.

One doubles team has been formed so far — Woods and John Soles.

Twenty young men from Granite City competed in the Ozark AAU wrestling meet during the weekend, eight advancing. It had been some time since the local area was represented in younger age groups in the event.

The team was made up of wrestlers of the Granite City Park District and Tri-City Area YMCA.

Both Coach Kessler from the park district and Coach Fuchs of the "Y" accompanied the boys to the tournament.

The park wrestling program will begin again in November, while the "Y" program will continue to run until the summer. Those interested in either program may contact either the park district or the "Y" for further information.

All-conquering PS ice hockey team adds GC tourney laurels

The Granite City P and S Amusement Bantam "A" boys' ice hockey team, fresh from winning the 13th annual Springfield Youth Hockey tournament last week, is still undefeated among 13-14-year-olds with a 4-0 record after capturing this weekend the third annual Granite City park district boys' tournament held at Wilson Park.

P and S Amusement, competing without the services of veteran center Danny Taft, was one player short in Sunday's title contest against Peoria, defeating the visitors 5-3.

defense refused Peoria any shots on goal in the first period of play as P&S jumped to a 1-0 lead and then stretched the margin to 4-1 in the third period before Peoria came on strong for the final score.

P&S Amusement drew a first-round bye and advanced to the championship contest by defeating Decatur 5-1 on two goals each by Gary Phelps and John Krevovich and one goal by Joe Juneau.

F&S Amusement put two shots into the net to lead the scoring in the championship clash. He was aided by one goal each from George Grove and Phelps.

Frank Prsha was the goalie in both games.

The powerful squad, boys' aged 13-14, will next compete at St. Charles, Mo. in a six-team Florissant Valley tournament on April 5-6 before heading north later in April to participate in a tournament at Thunder Bay, Canada.

Two other Granite City teams also earned top honors in their divisions.

Carr homer, Scott hurling aids North in 7-5 diamond win

The second-year Granite City High School North baseball squad, sparked by a three-run homer off the bat of Billy Carr, defeated Roxana 7-5 Wednesday on the Shells' home diamond.

Since Monday's scheduled contest with Water Dei was canceled, yesterday's game marked the initial contest of the 1975 season for the Steelers.

North garnered seven hits while committing four errors. Roxana's five runs came on six hits and the Shells were guilty of four errors.

Roxana gained a 3-0 margin in the first but in the same inning Harvey Breckner and Richard Schmidt got hits and Carr blasted a homer over the centerfielder's head.

An error, a hit by Dave Harrison and a sacrifice fly by Breckner enabled Darrell Page to score in the second.

North stretched its margin to 7-3 in the fifth after North reliever pitcher Bill Dickerson struck out three batters in a row. Jeff Reiter singled, advanced on an infield out, went to third on a muffed pickoff attempt and scored on a bad throw to third.

Roxana had to settle for only two additional runs, in the sixth. Scott was the winner for his four-inning stint. He gave up four hits, fanned five hitters and walked two.

Former college official guilty

Robert F. Jacox, Edwardsville, appeared in U.S. District Court Wednesday at East St. Louis and pleaded guilty to two counts of a six-count indictment. He is a former director of special programs at State Community College, East St. Louis.

Jacox pleaded guilty to willfully subscribing a false income tax return for the year 1972, and willfully purloining and converting to his personal use money in excess of $10,000, a part of the proceeds of a $32,072 check payable to Scotia's School of Cosmetology.

The check came into his possession and care by virtue of his employment as SCC director of special programs.

Henry Schwarz, U.S. attorney for the Eastern Judicial District of Illinois, announced that Jacox, a self-employed consultant, had received gross income of $51,816 for the year 1972, instead of reported gross income in the amount of $24,331.

On his plea of guilty to the two counts, Jacox could be fined a total of $15,000 and sentenced to 18 years in prison. In addition, he is also liable for any unpaid taxes and penalties.

The case was developed by special agents of the Internal Revenue Service and by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The IRS Audit Division assisted.

Safety meet on rail car mishaps that involve hazardous materials

On April 4, the Illinois Terminal Railroad Company will conduct a safety seminar for police and firemen covering prevention and control of accidents involving hazardous materials.

"Every effort must be made by the railroad industry to safely transport hazardous materials, such as liquefied petroleum gas, anhydrous ammonia and other commodities," a spokesman said. "Railroads have a responsibility to communities they serve to insure that every precaution is taken to protect life and property in the event of a railroad accident involving hazardous materials.

"Firemen and police responding to such accidents must be fully aware of correct procedures to follow upon their arrival at the scene.

"Those attending this seminar will be instructed in the proper procedure to determine what type of commodities are involved, and methods recommended for combating fires involving hazardous materials.

"The instruction will be given by representatives of the Federal Railroad Administration, Illinois Commerce Commission, Bureau of Explosives, Association of American Railroads, and the Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. Safety Department," the ITTC spokesman said.

There is no charge for attending the seminar, which will be held at the Sunset Hill Holiday Inn from 1 to 4 p.m. Friday, April 4.

Park Board lets contracts for two more tennis courts

The Granite City Park Board Wednesday night cited an increased interest in tennis as the reason for awarding contracts totaling $30,378 to Quad-City area contractors to construct two additional tennis courts adjacent to existing courts in Wilson Park near Fehling Road. C.D. Peters Construction was awarded contract on a bid of $18,445 for the installation of the courts. R. Dron Electric Co. was contracted on a low bid of $10,716 to install lights over the project. Granite City Glass Co. was the low bidder at $3,417 to construct fencing around the new courts.

The project is to begin immediately, depending on weather conditions.

Granite City Glass also was awarded a contract of $8,776 to install a backdrop at the West Granite Park softball field, and R. Dron was awarded a contract on a bid of $3,895 to replace existing lighting fixtures at Wilson Park's two existing tennis courts.

The Lambert Airport master plan—being used to suggest that the hemmed-in field is adequate for many years—is defective, the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority board was advised yesterday by its traffic consultants, Alan M. Voorhees and Associates of St. Louis. The Voorhees firm said the plan neither accurately states Lambert's ground access needs nor fully deals with such needs. It also said the master plan omits $100-$300 million for widening of Interstate 70.

The Interstate Commerce Commission allowed railroads Tuesday to raise freight rates seven per cent on commodities including coal, oil and meat foods.

Portell

Parmley said the Environmental Protection Agency "never will go along with that (the pipe)." Portell said that he had notified the Illinois EPA of the problem and that the state EPA office informed him it planned to send a field agent to check the matter.

"They were supposed to have been here a week ago, but no one has shown up yet," the street superintendent added.

After the meeting, Portell said the trouble lies in a 15-inch sewer line that extends from Clark Avenue, passing under Johnson Road.

Just south of Johnson Road the line makes a right turn, passing under the Nampoki ditch, and then turns left along the ditch near Roder Avenue. He said there obviously is a sanitary sewer break on the right side of the line before it passes under the drainage ditch, and another on the west side of the ditch before it turns southward.

Portell said the flow of sewage through the pipe into the open ditch will occur only when there is a heavy rain creating a high water level in the ditch and infiltrating broken sanitary lines with stormwater.

Since the discussion developed late in Monday's meeting, only eight of the 14 council members were still present when a roll call vote was ordered on Parmley's motion that Portell be ordered to remove the pipe.

After three aldermen, Sam Whitmer, Roy Poulos and Frank Greenwald, cast negative votes during the roll call, the voting ended with a decision to carry the matter over to the next meeting because a decisive vote could not be obtained among eight members.

The next meeting is April 7. A superintendent of streets for the next four years will be elected April 1. Candidates are Mac Warfield and Supt. Portell.

Celebration to note 10th year of SIUE

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will mark the tenth anniversary of the opening of its 2,400-acre campus with a year-long celebration beginning in October. Dr. John S. Rendleman, SIUE president, said today.

Dr. Rendleman said A. R. Howard, director of University News Services, will assume new responsibilities April 1 as director of the anniversary celebration.

Howard has been working with a university-wide committee since December formulating plans for the celebration. He will serve on the staff of the Office of the President heading preparations for the anniversary.

Sam L. Smith, assistant director of News Services, will become acting director April 1 and will assume all management responsibilities for News Services operations while Howard is on special assignment.

Howard said the celebration is scheduled to begin the week of Oct. 13 and will involve all elements of the campus and the metropolitan bi-state community which the university serves.

"The tenth anniversary presents an exceptional opportunity for SIUE to demonstrate to the people of Illinois and to the St. Louis metropolitan area the advantages of having an outstanding university in this location. SIUE has enjoyed dramatic growth during the last decade and has contributed significantly to economic and educational opportunities in the region," Dr. Rendleman said.

"The university has had a substantial impact on the lives of thousands of young people in the area, presenting them with an opportunity to receive a high quality education close to home at a cost that they can afford."

"Prior to the establishment of this campus, higher education opportunities for many were limited to those available in nearby private colleges or remote public institutions."

"Given the economy of our area, the presence of SIUE has opened the doors of University opportunity to many who would not otherwise have had such an advantage."

Park ice show Monday, skating season ends

An exhibition of hockey by 6- and 7-year-old boys, solo figure skating and a production number will be part of the Park District's annual "Ice Show" set for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Wilson Park ice rink. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

General skating sessions resume Friday at the local rink, with the regular operating hours to be followed through Sunday when public skating concludes for the 1974-75 season. Wilson Park rink has been closed to the public this week while a hockey tournament was in progress. The contests conclude today.

The Granite City Mini-Squirts, consisting of boys, 6 and 7 years, will open Monday night's ice show by demonstrating their hockey skills, starting at 7:30.

Eleven Granite City girls will be featured in the figure skating solo numbers.

Soloists displaying their talents will be Beth Worthen, Beth Hojce, Kim Kleinschmidt, Mary Lee and Debbie Bigham, Dawn Luebbert, Bernadine Yurkovich, Pam Mitchell, Debbie Gebhardt, Elizabeth Taylor and Monica Wadlow.

Guest skaters to be spotlighted will be Laura Primmo and Janet Manchester. Both young women are competitive figure skaters from the St. Louis area.

About 20 youngsters who have attended the Saturday morning freestyle skate school at Wilson Park rink will be introduced in a production number to conclude the show.

The entire presentation is being coordinated and directed by Pam Siefert an Norma Wylie of the park district staff.

4 1/2 million tax returns being processed in state

If you get tired of working on your income tax return this year, think about the men and women of the Illinois Revenue Department's Tax Processing Center in Springfield who this year will work on more than 4,500,000 of them.

That's how many Illinois income tax returns officials of the department expect this year. And the 790 people who work on them can't afford to make a mistake.

Henry A. Spellman, chief of the tax processing center, said a mistake on one line of one per cent of the forms that will come in this year would produce a stack of paper 50 feet high. But that won't happen.

"For one thing, we have a good crew of hard-working people," Spellman said. Figure it up and you'll find that each one of them will work on an average of 5,500 income tax returns. They'll get the job done.

Illinois Revenue Director Robert H. Alphin reports the tax processors are getting the job done faster this year. He pointed out that by March 13, the department had made more than 535,000 refunds, 201,000 more than the number of refunds made in the same time last year.

"Part of the reason is that we have done a better job of planning for this year's income tax season. But much of the credit has to go to the people who work on the processing line," Alphin said. Thousands of state income tax returns come into the Springfield center each day. In the last three weeks of the filing season last year, they came in at a rate of 88,000 a day, and that meant a mailroom crowded with mountains of envelopes.

The department opens those envelopes quickly because many of them carry tax payments. A delay in banking those payments could cost the state thousands of dollars in interest each day.

Revenue officials estimate that the state gains as much as $1 million in interest revenue each year through quick banking of tax remittances.

The rapid deposit system also has helped with department priorities.

Alphin explains, "We know that a person sending in a check with his return probably isn't expecting a refund and probably isn't going to get one. So we can credit his payment to his account, set the return aside, and work first on the returns of people who are expecting a refund."

The department's system for processing tax returns is a maze of checks and balances, of examinations by human and electronic eyes.

Each form in the tons that will flow through the system will get the same attention.

Diagrammed, the processing system looks as complex as the schematics of the computers that help do the processing. But it functions so well that refunds will be mailed within six to seven weeks after an envelope has been opened.

Changes can be worked into the system only once a year. It takes the same sort of precision for launching a new processing technique as it takes for launching a spacecraft.

And a mistake can cause problems all along the processing line, cause returns to pile up at some points, and leave workers idle at others.

"Once we're committed to a technique," Spellman said, "we have to live with the problems. It's hard to stop in midstream, no matter how good a change looks."

Once they've entered the processing line, the returns are sorted by date received, separated by the number of pages, and put in batches of 100. Single-page returns are checked for proper W-2 forms, signatures and correct entries.

Multi-page returns get the same reviews, along with checks to see if the returns are complete. Information on the tax form is next keyed into a computer system, the first place where consistency in the return is checked.

The computer's logic ability is used to see "if the data processing equipment will tell us the same thing the taxpayer told us," according to Spellman. "If it doesn't, the taxpayer can expect to hear from us," he said.

After a batch balance—an internal check to make sure that none of the 100 forms has been lost—refunds for correctly figured returns are made.

Spellman said that about 85 per cent of all refunds are made at this point. Generally, other refunds are delayed because of errors or inconsistencies in the taxpayer's return.

The most common problem is that the taxpayer has claimed too many subtractions, according to Spellman. Many, for example, subtract federal income tax payments from the income subject to the Illinois tax, Illinois law doesn't provide any deduction for federal income taxes.

The department's checks also have worked. Alphin said 10,500 taxpayers last year shared a total of $1,000 in refunds they hadn't expected. The department discovered they had overpaid.

Despite the care in getting refunds to taxpayers quickly, some never make it to the taxpayer.

"Last year, there were about 19,000 refund checks we couldn't deliver because we couldn't locate the taxpayer," the director said.

"The main reason for undelivered refunds is that the taxpayer gives us an incorrect address."

"He may move between the time he files the return and when we send the refund. There are a number of ways we try to find the taxpayer, but we don't always succeed."

Alphin said that if the taxpayer isn't located, the refund money is credited to the taxpayer's account and used to pay for any tax liability in the following year.

Some returns with errors that can't be corrected immediately will be separated from their batches and made separate case files until completed.

The remainder will be squeezed onto the shelves in the center's 25,000-square-foot central files. They will be kept for seven years.

There is also a Taxpayer Information Section in the processing center where calls for assistance are answered from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The telephones in that section will be in use almost constantly through the April 15 filing deadline. Alphin said the department expects to handle 400,000 requests for help this year.

The income tax season doesn't begin until the first of February, since employers aren't required to get W-2 forms to employees until Jan. 31.

It will peak quickly during the last two weeks before the filing deadline. About one-fourth of all returns filed will be received in those two weeks.

Things won't be much different for the tax processors after the deadline.

Income tax returns will continue to come in from taxpayers who were granted extensions or who were filing late for other reasons.

And there are some 10 million forms to process for the 22 other states that the department administers.

Because those tax returns peak at different times during the year, processors of the sales and miscellaneous taxes will be helping income tax processors during their busy season. The income tax processors will help the others later in the year.

Spellman is fond of saying, "We always run out of year before we run out of work to do."

Church fund drive will open Sunday

A special spring building fund drive to help pay the indebtedness of the Trinity Church of God in Christ, 800 Blinn St., Venice, will begin Sunday, according to the Rev. Norvell V. Wolfolk.

The church has a total debt on its new building of $45,000. The goal for the spring campaign is $20,000.

The former church building was destroyed by fire in February 1970 and a new church was built and opened in July 1973.

Rev. Wolfolk, who serves without pay as pastor of the congregation, is director of adult education for the Human Development Corporation in St. Louis.

The drive will end the first Saturday in June. Anyone wishing to make a donation may send a check to P.O. Box 212, Madison, making checks payable to the church, according to the pastor.

Easter services at Pontoon church
A sunrise service will be held at 6 a.m. Sunday at the Pontoon Beach Church of Christ, followed with a breakfast at 6:45 a.m., Jack Kelley, minister, announced today.

The Easter worship service will commence at 9:30 a.m., and Bible school will start at 10:30 a.m., he said.

Ruling

attorney general went a little bit too far—he was the judge and the jury.

"He gave me no choice, saying I had to resign from the township. That is not right. If I had my choice, I would resign from the county."

"During the election, the same attorney general said it was OK to hold both offices. Now he has reversed himself and said there is a conflict."

"He failed to say that the electors are the contract authority on any contracts entered into with the county, not the supervisor," Whitsell contended.

Attorney General Scott said he felt a conflict existed because of a 1974 interpretation of the new state constitution, which allowed contracts to be signed between townships and counties to share in funding for projects constructed or implemented, using federal revenue sharing funds.

Whitsell said there are no mutual contracts between the township and the county and if one should be presented, he would abstain from voting on the contract, thus avoiding any conflict. He also said all contracts would have to be approved by the public at the annual town meeting, not by the supervisor.

He commented the conflict of interest ruling was particularly wrong in cases such as Nelson Hagner's position. Hagner is supervisor of Granite City Township and since the townships lines are contiguous with the Granite City lines, the City Council acts as the town board. Hagner has no vote on township matters.

The case is the same in Alton, where the township and city boundaries are the same.

"The attorney general also said that those elected before 1974 are not in conflict, but that does not make sense. If you are in conflict, you are in conflict," Whitsell stated.

Whitsell continued, "I do not feel this opinion will be certified during my term of office. There was the same attorney general's opinion on our

Clarence Mayes' mark 25th Year

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence "Rocky" Mayes of Clinton, Iowa, former Granite City residents, are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary today.

The couple moved to Iowa two years ago. They are residing at 2715 S. 14th St., Apt. 215, Clinton.

In observance of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Mayes' family will entertain at a dinner party Saturday evening at a Davenport (Iowa) restaurant. Hosting the event will be their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reed and daughter, Tlatasua, of Granite City, and their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayes and son, Benjamin, of Clinton.

A family tree plaque, inscribed with their children's and grandchildren's names and birthdates, will be presented to the honored guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayes were married March 27, 1949, in Kentucky. Mrs. Mayes will be remembered as the former Miss Cleda Tur.

DONALD JOHNSONS NAME DAUGHTER KRISTY BETH
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, 330 S. Kansas St., Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City, are announcing the birth of a daughter Tuesday at Alton Memorial Hospital.

The new arrival, who has been named Kristy Beth, weighed six pounds, six ounces. She has two brothers, James Glen and Kelly Scott.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Mildred Dacus, a daughter of Mrs. Maxine Dacus of Granite City. The paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Johnson, also reside in Granite City.

assessor, who also serves on the Granite City School Board. You have to remember that it is only an opinion. It would have to be a matter settled by the courts.

"I do not think this will stand up in court. I am elected by the people of the township and I am elected until my terms expire. I expect to be here at the end of my term, unless impeached, and this would be a form of impeachment," Whitsell added.

He said the election of Mrs. Helen Hawkins, who successfully opposed Whitsell when he won re-election last year to the County Board, said she felt Whitsell is serving illegally and that the board should hold his salary in escrow until the issue is resolved. "Let the township gain some interest from it," she suggested.

The town attorney, Carl Hawkins, commented, "Mrs. Hawkins, you have a right to file any lawsuit you want to," and she responded, "I don't want to run again."

Whitsell said he would continue to serve as supervisor, even if his pay is held in escrow, but the board refused to consider the action.

The supervisor told Mrs. Hawkins, "I expect to finish my term and then if you want to run against me, you are welcome to. I don't even know if I will be running again."

Town Clerk Douglas Teator requested a legal opinion from Runge on the effect of the attorney general's opinion on Whitsell's position. "I have to approve the bond of the supervisor and if my attorney tells me I can, then I will," Teator explained.

Runge again emphasized the attorney general's opinion is "only an opinion" and is not valid until tested by the courts, but Runge agreed to prepare a written opinion for Teator's use.

Drainage study contract let

The first official step toward development of an access road from the Nameki shopping area to downtown Granite City was taken by the Granite City Council Monday night.

Council members agreed unanimously to sign a contract with M. W. Architects & Engineers, St. Louis planning and engineering firm, for a study to determine drainage improvements required to make possible the construction of the proposed access road.

The M. W. firm, which now handles engineering for the city's secondary sewage treatment plant and is now making a location study for a proposed overpass between downtown Granite City and West Granite City, submitted the lowest of four engineering proposals for the drainage study.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer told council members the M. W. firm offered to make the study for $6,000 plus the cost of aerial photographs that may be needed. The photographs will cost between $800 and $1,000.

Other proposals included: Flagg, Scheibel and Scherbert, Edwardsville, $7,000 to $8,000; Harland Bartholomew Associates, St. Louis, $7,500 to $9,500; and M. B. Corlew Associates, Edwardsville, $7,500. None of the proposals included the cost of aerial photographs in the proposals.

Decision by the City Council to retain an engineer to study drainage problems that might be encountered in building an access road extending along the railroad right-of-way from behind Nameki Shopping Center to 25th Street was reached last month following a Series of meetings between city officials and representatives of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

In a working agreement proposed to the city by the engineering firm on the basis of its low offer, M. W. said the questions to be resolved by the study will include:

1. The most economical solution to the drainage problem that exists west of the shopping center areas near the railroad.
2. Provide traffic relief on Nameki Road that presently has the shopping center as a major traffic generator.
3. The combination of traffic relief and storm drainage improvement to be in such manner as to provide a minimum of disturbance to present operations and provide a safe and economical access to the shopping center.

The firm informed the city it expects to complete the study within 60 days.

The council Monday night also enacted an ordinance amendment changing the membership of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board.

Alderman Frank Greenwald, chairman of the council's Air Pollution Committee, told the council the change was recommended because the present board has difficulty in getting a quorum of members to a meeting.

The bill was approved unanimously without discussion.

Labor members, citizens trained as counselors on local agency services

Social Security, the Arthritis Foundation and the Salvation Army were the latest topics covered by the Community Services Counseling Class at the local YMCA. The class is a program co-sponsored by the AFL-CIO, Tri-City Trades and Labor Council and the Community Services Department of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

The program was the most recent session of a six-week course designed to bring about awareness of the various services offered to this community.

Representatives of United Way agencies and other public and private agencies serving the Quad-Cities give brief presentations on the services they offer and their eligibility requirements.

Time is then allowed for more specific questions from the members of the class.

The class is composed of representatives from labor unions and interested citizens of the community. Attendance for the two hour sessions, lasting from 7 to 9 p.m., has been averaging over 25, with 34 members in an attending status.

Those members who complete the course will be awarded certificates at a graduation luncheon sponsored by The Tri-Cities Trades and Labor Council.

Main objective is that, when the graduates return to their local unions, places of employment and the community, they will be "better equipped to help others."

"To know...to use...to serve...to support...and to improve the health and welfare services of our community," a spokesman explained.

Tonight's final session deals with the American Red Cross, A. B. Smith, labor liaison, and Coordinated Youth Services, Director C. A. MacMillan.

Referral handling and a course summary will be presented by S. T. "Pete" Nasir, United Way executive director, and George J. Knecht, AFL-CIO community services director.

John Olson, claims representative, spoke on behalf of the Social Security Administration. Mrs. Marcia Whitson represented the Arthritis Foundation and Capt. Ronald Kerley the Salvation Army.

Speakers besides Knecht and Nasir have included: Edwin Reiske, president, Tri-City Trades and Labor Council; Ted Funkhouser, county superintendent of Madison County Public Aid.

John Garrett, senior counselor, Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency.

Wesley Tobin, manager, Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home.

Harold Rudolph, executive director, Tri-City Area Young Men's Christian Association; Mary Ann Menemeyer, social worker, Catholic Charities.

Arlene Crouther, director, Visiting Nurse Association; Howard Harris, representative, Illinois Unemployment Compensation.

William Daumueler, Quad-City Mental Health Clinic; Willie Walker, project director, Urban League, Madison.

And Mary Yowell, regional supervisor, Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Urban League dinner at SIUE

Vernon E. Jordan Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, will be the guest speaker at the fifth anniversary dinner of the Urban League of Madison and St. Clair Counties, Friday, April 11, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The dinner is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in Meridian Hall of the University Center. Assisting with the arrangements is John H. Flamer, a member of the league's board of directors and an assistant to the president of SIUE.

Jordan has been executive director of the "intercultural, non-partisan, social work agency" since 1972. An attorney, he has been a consultant to the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, and he formerly was executive director of the United Negro College Fund and director of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council.

According to Dallas Parks, a field director for the Madison-St. Clair Urban League, the national league has 103 affiliate organizations, with regional offices in New York City, Chicago, Atlanta and Los Angeles. He said the organization is concerned with improving housing, health and welfare, economic development and employment, and education.

The national league was founded in 1910 "for the purpose of assisting blacks who migrated from Southern rural areas to Northern industrial centers," Parks said.

The Madison-St. Clair organization has 33 board members, representing the community at large. It has three field directors, and Ed Smith of East St. Louis is executive director.

Officers of the bi-county league will be installed for two-year terms at the annual meeting at SIUE. Andrew Pickens of East St. Louis will replace Ralph Dickerson of St. Louis as president, and three officers have been re-elected to the positions they currently hold: Larry LeCompte of East St. Louis, first vice-president; Glenita Pensoneau of Fairview Heights, secretary; and Warrington Hudlin of East St. Louis, treasurer.

Tickets for the dinner are $10 per person. Reservations may be made at the Urban League offices in Alton or East St. Louis.

Question boy about break-in Granite City police juvenile authorities are to question a juvenile Granite City boy today whose wallet was found inside Washington School, West 20th and Nevada streets, at 4:50 p.m. Wednesday following a break-in.

Police reported finding all classrooms and teachers' desks in the school ransacked. The wallet was found in a hallway and contained identification of the boy. Police found him at his house and questioned him at the police station. He was released pending additional questioning today.

Officers said a bar on the kitchen door was worked loose to gain entry to the school.

Charged in 2 stabbings

Wendell L. McCallister, 27, of 3106 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged Monday with two counts of aggravated battery in connection with an incident in the 200 block of Missouri Avenue Sunday night in which two men were cut with a knife.

Officers alleged finding McCallister hiding in a vacant apartment at 2544 Missouri Ave. after a fight in front of the building in which Joseph Sheppard, 20, of 1801 Poplar St., and Robert K. Reisinger, 20, Sorento, Ill., were stabbed. Both were hospitalized.

Religious works illustrate talk

"One Picture is Worth a 1,000 Words" was the topic of Mrs. Frank Ehler, who addressed the Ladies Coterie at a meeting last week at the First United Presbyterian Church.

To illustrate her talk, Mrs. Ehler displayed copies of three religious pictures—"Prince of Peace," "His Presence" and "Christ of St. John of the Cross"—discussing each work in detail.

Mrs. E. H. Theis, president, introduced the guest speaker and conducted the business session.

The club collect was recited by Mrs. Fred Haug and the pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. B. S. Miller. Mrs. E. J. Griffith presided at the piano as the group sang a song.

Mrs. Theis appointed Mrs. Floyd Henley, Mrs. Alfred Page, Mrs. James Fox and Mrs. Raymond Horn as delegates to the April 2 county federation meeting.

Members agreed to donate an art scholarship to a South High School student to attend a summer program, and planned a rummage sale for April 18, to be held at the corner of Bern Avenue and Vine Boulevard.

Mrs. Mark Pickett gave the closing prayer.

Coterie members will next meet at the church, with Mrs. Haug as hostess and Mrs. Horton in charge of a "show and tell" program.

Circle 3 to aid layette program

In keeping with the current study, "Women of the Bible," Mrs. Dee Roberts spoke on "Drusilla" at a meeting last week of Circle 3 at the First United Presbyterian Church. She also read a story relating to the Easter season.

Mrs. Louise Orr, chairman, presided and reviewed plans for a businessmen's luncheon today at the church. Mrs. Anna George read the "Yearbook of Prayer."

A baby shower on April 15, when items will be donated to the Quad-City Church Women United's "Layettes for the New Born," program was discussed. Also planned was a luncheon to be served the Ladies Coterie on April 17.

All United Presbyterian Women's circles have been asked to attend a surprise dinner at 6:30 p.m. April 22, Mrs. Orr said.

Mrs. Mildred Meek and Mrs. Nettie Conray, hostesses, served refreshments to 19 members and guests. Mrs. Ila Maxton, Mrs. Gladys Page and Mrs. Eugenia Lockwood.

The "Fellowship of the Least Coin" service, led by Mrs. Anna Mae Wetton, concluded the meeting.

Book review by Mrs. Ann Haley

Mrs. Ann Haley reviewed the "Bamboo Tree" by Esther Yeung at a meeting of Lydia Circle of Namooki United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Dorothy Wallace, 3144 Myrtle Ave., was hostess and Mrs. Helen Metcalf gave the opening prayer.

Future events were discussed, including the United Methodist Women's mother and daughter dinner on May 5 at the church, and entertaining residents at Colonial Haven Nursing Home at a May 19 birthday party. Members are also making lap robes for use by the patients.

Mrs. Mildred Hess will host the next meeting in her home, 14 Del Rio Drive.

Mrs. Wallace served refreshments to Mesdames Jessie Sayers, Viola Thornsberry, Effie Vrenick, Lucille Webb, Marvin Whitaker, Ethel Seymour, Virgie Barks, Gladys Russell, Lucille Russell and Mary Bailey.

Red Cross, Postal Service agreement

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar and American National Red Cross President George M. Ealey have signed an agreement for their agencies to mutually assist disaster victims, Mrs. Mildred Meehan of the Tri-City Red Cross Chapter reported today.

The agreement, signed at Postal Service headquarters March 26, provides that the agencies will share information on the whereabouts of persons displaced by disasters and assist in their relocation. The Postal Service will provide change of address forms which the Red Cross will use as a standard item in its disaster relief operations. Victims displaced from their homes will be asked to complete the forms which will then be turned over to the Postal Service.

For each disaster, the Postal Service will establish a separate file on the completed address forms and will make this information available to the Red Cross, Mrs. Meehan explained.

The Red Cross will use this information to locate individuals and families, to answer inquiries from relatives and friends concerning the whereabouts and welfare of victims, and to make contact with victims who have applied for Red Cross Assistance but cannot be located because of a change of address.

The agreement formalizes a practice which has been in effect between the two agencies in the past and is an updating of a formal agreement between the Red Cross and the former Post Office Department signed in 1966.

Many school closings, staff reductions likely in Illinois

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin announced Tuesday the creation of a state task force to help school districts respond to the trend toward declining enrollment in Illinois public schools.

Regional Superintendent Howard Brown of Decatur will chair a panel of educators and specialists to prepare recommendations on the appropriate use of staff and facilities as school enrollment drops. Granite City Schools last week decided on a faculty reduction of 35 for 1975-76.

By 1984, Illinois will teach one-third of a million fewer students than in the 1971 peak enrollment of 2.3 million in this state's schools.

"Enrollments may drop by as much as 20 per cent, except in the five suburban counties around Chicago and in Downstate districts with new industry or expressways," Dr. Cronin predicted.

The Illinois Office of Education has released a statistical summary of enrollment trends statewide and by counties.

"Many of our old buildings can be closed while we repair or replace the schools which violate the state Life-Safety Code," Cronin said. He projected a need for fewer teachers except as specialists in bilingual education or handicapped programs.

"Unless we consider such measures as lowering the retirement age, thousands of teachers may lose their positions and very few young teachers will find jobs by 1980," he predicted.

Cronin warned that many communities continue to grow and need new buildings to house modern educational programs.

"Some school districts will double their enrollment while others lose as much as half of their students."

The report indicated that empty classrooms could be used for adult classes, early childhood, and special education, and for possible reduction in class size.

Cronin also released a new report on the use of volunteers in Illinois schools.

"Chicago alone recruits more than 1,400 volunteers to work in schools along with teachers and paid aides," the superintendent said.

Use of volunteers in other communities can complement and enhance the role of professional educators rather than undermine that role, he added.

Greater use of retired persons in the schools is one recommendation along with expanded emphasis on Right to Read programs.

"Illinois still has 250,000 adults who are classified as functional illiterates," Dr. Cronin said. "We need volunteers to help our salaried employees find these persons and give them tutoring and individualized attention."

The state education agency will sponsor May 7 in Springfield the first of a series of conferences on the use of volunteers in Illinois schools.

GC 'wheel tax' law changed

An ordinance amendment under which Granite City car owners will be able to obtain vehicle tax stickers replacements for a $1 fee was enacted by the City Council Monday night, climaxing a two-month effort to change the city's wheel tax law.

The amendment also provides sale of vehicle licenses to senior citizens car owners for $1, but limits the number of such reduced-price licenses to one in a family.

The ordinance also was amended on a motion by Alderman Roy Poole, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, to permit a person buying his first car to obtain the license at the regular fee anytime during the year, and to permit a person buying a second car to obtain a vehicle tax sticker at the regular price within 30 days after the purchase date.

The ordinance does not change the present schedule of vehicle tax fees, although a suggested ordinance prepared by the Finance Committee several weeks ago proposed a $2 increase in all license categories.

Fees that remain unchanged are $2 for motorcycles and motor bikes, $3 for passenger cars, and $8 to $25 for trucks, depending upon truck weights.

These fees apply for licenses obtained prior to May 15. After that date, all fees are increased by $2.50 except for motorcycles and motorbikes for which the fee remains unchanged at $2.

The bill permits sale of a replacement tag for $1 in the event a windshield is broken, or when a vehicle for which the sticker originally was sold is replaced by the owner. In either case, proof must be provided by the motorist, either of having had the windshield replaced or for the disposal of the first car.

Under the ordinance before the amendment, tax stickers could be replaced for a 50-cent fee if a windshield was broken, but a replacement sticker needed after a car owner sold or traded his car for another cost the full $2.50 fee after the May 15 deadline.

Sale of the tags to senior citizens for $1 also was provided in the previous ordinance, but no limit was placed on the number to be sold within one family. As a result the city clerk's office last year sold as many as three or four $1 licenses within one family in several instances.

New bus fares to benefit senior citizens and blind

A new reduced fare of 15 cents for blind persons and further reductions and broader use of the present special senior citizen rates of 15 cents will go into effect Monday, March 31.

James E. Terry, Bi-State Transit System general manager, said today that "Bi-State is extremely pleased that it can now offer reduced rates to the handicapped starting with the blind."

"The 15 cent rate will be good at all hours of operation — seven days a week — and transfer and zone charges will not apply to these riders."

"Also, the present off-peak 15-cent reduced fare for senior citizens will be extended to all hours of operation, and present zone and transfer charges will be eliminated."

Then, the application form must be taken to any recognized agency serving the blind. The agency will fill out its portion of the application certifying that the applicant is blind according to the laws of Missouri or Illinois.

Next, the completed application is to be mailed to: Transit I. D. Department, Bi-State Transit System, 3669 Park Ave., St. Louis, Mo. 63110.

Upon receipt of the application, Bi-State will mail the identification card to the blind person.

Application blanks may be obtained by writing or calling Bi-State Transit System at 723-1120, and soon will be available at agencies serving the blind throughout the metropolitan region and at Bi-State weekly pass sales outlets.

However, passengers traveling between the central fare area and the suburban zone areas will still be subject to zone charges.

Blind persons will be required to have special identification cards.

"The ID cards will not be required at the start of the program. It will be on an 'honor system' basis for a reasonable period of time to give the blind time to obtain the cards."

"But we do ask that they get them as soon as possible, and that sighted persons who know the completed application is to be mailed to: Transit I. D. Department, Bi-State Transit System, 3669 Park Ave., St. Louis, Mo. 63110.

remedy" and urged that the council begin drafting an overall drainage improvement project that would include drainage, curbs and guttering for all the problem areas in the city.

"I'm for this (Franklin Avenue) but it's not going to solve our problems. It's just a piecemeal remedy."

Several aldermen responded that such a project would require extensive financing which could be obtained only through a bond issue. "We all know that we would spend several years getting such a project ready, and we know the public would never approve such a bond issue," Dawes replied.

Nick Petrillo, 3508 Franklin Ave., another member of the audience, told the council that "if we have to do it piecemeal, then let's do it. Spend $50,000 this year and $50,000 next year if you have to, but let's get something done now."

Brewer told council members that his tentative plan for draining Franklin Avenue between Amos and Cottage also would serve to drain part of the side streets in that stretch "because the grade of most of those streets tend to drain into Franklin."

The council in its March 17 meeting authorized an engineering study of the area to determine what must be done to correct drainage problems. That study is to be made by Brewer's office.

Interesting streets in the area for which the drainage improvements are proposed include Cottage, Garfield, Richmond and Manley avenues.

"We had a very good meeting and everyone seems ready to go. We discussed final terms and the attorneys are drawing up contracts which will be presented for approval of the council at our next meeting," Kismar said. "As soon as the contracts are approved the firm will set up shop and start meeting with the merchants on improvements of the downtown area," Kismar added.

A letter was read and placed on file from the Madison Junior Service Club commending John Carlson, city recreation director, for the work he has at done at the Madison Recreation center, and the cooperation he has given the club.

Bills of $29,479 for the period March 12 through March 25 were approved.

Two bids were opened for asphalt and referred to the Finance Committee and the superintendent of streets. The Asphalt Concrete Corp. of St. Louis bid $8.50 a ton for class one asphalt, and the MacLair Asphalt Co. of Collinsville bid $11.85 a ton.

Alderman Robert Don Reeves acted as chairman at the council meeting as Mayor Mike Sasyk was attending another meeting in Springfield, Ill.

Bridge dismantling due soon

Work of dismantling the Chain of Rocks bridge which spans the Mississippi River from Chouteau Township to St. Louis County north of St. Louis should begin within the next four weeks, according to the owner, Charles E. Wilson Sr.

The bridge was purchased from the City of Madison for $100,000 by Charles E. Wilson and Associates of Lansing, Mich. Wilson flew into the area Tuesday with his engineer, George Snyder of Jackson, Mich.

Wilson and Snyder met with William Flahart of the United States Coast Guard Tuesday to arrange for permits for the demolition and dismantling of the bridge.

"The Coast Guard and Flahart have been very helpful and cooperative," Snyder said. "We anticipate no problems with the permits which should all be secured within a matter of a few days."

"Depending on the availability of equipment and operations we could start work in about 30 days. To take this bridge apart will require some very large equipment."

"We probably will take a span at a time, with large cranes and let them down onto barges, then float the barges to shore and dismantle the spans on shore," Snyder explained.

"As you can imagine, this takes tremendous sized equipment and very experienced personnel. You sure don't want to drop a span into the river."

The sale of the bridge was limited to the superstructure, all supporting structures, pilings and accessory objects. No real estate owned by the city was included in the sale.

"I'm going to teach Red (Charles Wilson Jr.) how to take a bridge apart," Wilson Sr. commented. Wilson Jr. lives at 207 Briarwood Drive and is in the roofing and siding business.

"It is only a two-hour flight here in my plane and I have been coming back to Granite City and really enjoying meeting old friends and school mates," Wilson Sr. said.

Hospital needs volunteers

Volunteers are needed to man the reception and information desks at St. Elizabeth Hospital for operation of the newly-instituted visitor control program which became effective earlier this month, according to Mrs. Jimmy Tuetken, director of the hospital's Public Relations Department.

The stations are operated from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m., seven days a week. Volunteers usually work four-hour shifts and are most needed at the present time for the 8 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m. and 4 to 8 p.m. hours.

Visitors are not allowed to enter the hospital before 1 p.m. unless by special arrangements.

Persons interested in volunteering their services may call Mrs. Rebecca Slate, volunteer co-ordinator, at 878-2200, extension 448, for an interview.

Attends funeral in New Orleans

Mrs. Bethel J. Davis of Granite City returned home this week from New Orleans, La., where she attended the funeral on March 22 of Mrs. Lauretine Peace of that city.

Mrs. Peace died March 19 following a stroke which she suffered three days earlier.

She was the mother of Mrs. Don C. (Mary Dee) Davis, daughter-in-law of the local resident. Beside her daughter, Mrs. Peace is survived by her husband, Clyde, and three grandchildren.

Limbs, wires downed by wind

High winds in the Quad-City area, exceeding 40 miles-per-hour at times, were responsible Monday for downed tree limbs, power outages and other damage.

Several tree limbs fell on power lines, causing a loss of power, it is believed. A spokesman for Illinois Power Co. said the causes have not been confirmed, but a broken wire left 15 to 20 customers without power for a period in the 1800 block of State Street, starting at 7:58 p.m. Monday.

Two other broken wires in the East Granite City area left 15 to 20 customers without power.

Three or four homes also were without power Monday when a transformer burned out in the 2400 block of Benton Street.

The high winds began Sunday and continued into Monday. One transformer failure was reported in the area Sunday, leaving about five homes without power.

The wind broke poles supporting several umbrellas over picnic tables in the area and other minor damage was reported from falling tree limbs.

Army night vision device enroute to John Young, 11

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

An 11-year-old Granite City boy came home from Washington, D.C., last week with a gold key chain from a United States congressman. Many exciting memories of kind people and historic places, and the most precious gift—an opportunity to once again see at night.

John Allen Young will be the first civilian in the United States to benefit medically from a night vision device developed by International Telephone & Telegraph for the U.S. Army. John suffers from retinitis pigmentosa, an eye disease for which no treatment or cure has been found to arrest or retard it.

The symptoms are a gradual decline in night and peripheral vision. Eventually, the victim goes completely blind day and night. John has been unable to see at night for the past three years.

The boy and his father, Granite City Patrolman Albert Young, traveled to Washington and from there were escorted to Fort Belvoir, Va., by Larry Acchione, assistant director for Laboratory Operators at the Army base.

Initial tests with a bulky, mask-like device, originally designed to permit soldiers to see enemy troop movements in Vietnam, were disappointing. John was unable to use the equipment due to his eye glasses.

Young said, "We were all disappointed. But, then they gave John a pocket model of the device and it worked perfectly."

"They dimmed the lights in the room and showed some slides. It was truly a touching moment when John equaled his eyes and said 'It works. It is terrific,'" the father said.

"I looked through the device myself," Young said, "and I could hardly believe what I saw. Without it, the screen looked blank."

The initial slide John was asked to identify was dark, but the device revealed an Army tank photographed under moonlight conditions.

Young learned this week the pocket-size device is being made available to John. Presently, it is enroute to Dr. Elliot Berson, a Boston research specialist in the field of retinitis pigmentosa, by whom John was examined in 1972.

Dr. Berson will forward the device to Dr. Stephen Podos at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. Young explained, Dr. Podos was responsible for sending the Youngs to consult the Boston specialist.

"He could be fitted for the device in just a few weeks, if everything goes well," the father said. The pocket-size version is expected to cost more than $7,000 and the financial arrangements for its use are still unclear to the local family.

News of John's successful test has brought encouragement to others suffering with the same rare eye disease," Young said. "We've had calls from Michigan and Houston from people with the ailment who read about John's test."

"I don't know what to tell them, as it was only through the help of U.S. Congressman Melvin Price that we were able to get the Army to test John at all," the father said.

Rep. Price, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, first was approached by Dave Clark and Mayor Mike Sasyk of the Madison Lions Club, who described the boy's condition in a letter.

The congressman called the appropriate officials and the test at Fort Belvoir was arranged.

John and his father visited

Rep. Price at his Washington offices to deliver the good news and thank him in person. It was the congressman who presented John with his gold key chain memento.

Father and son were transported to Washington, courtesy of Ozark Airlines, whose employees "smoothed away any difficulty in making the trip," Young said.

Before taking off from St. Louis, John was given a personal inspection tour of the flight deck and cockpit, and lots of attention during the flight by two attractive stewardesses.

"Everyone was wonderful to John and I during the trip," the Granite City police officer said. "Our special thanks go to a young man named Jim Dove who works for Ozark, but helped us to get around to different places on his own time."

"Jim picked us up at our motel, took us into Washington to see Mr. Price and to visit different places John had asked to see. He also entertained us at his home in Centerville, Va., and arranged for John to tour the control tower at Dulles International Airport in Washington, before we left for home," Young said.

"We also owe a great many thanks to Tom Charlton who works for Congressman Price," he added.

"Larry Acchione not only drove us to Fort Belvoir, but also to Mount Vernon to see George Washington's home. It was an experience John will never forget," Young said.

"He was thrilled at seeing the moon rock brought back by the astronauts, Lindbergh's 'Spirit of St. Louis' and the Wright Brothers plane. All are displayed at the Smithsonian Institute."

"We went twice to the Botanical Gardens, John's special favorite as he loves plants and flowers, and we sat in on a session at the House Chambers," the father explained.

MEDICAL POCKETSCOPE, the prototype developed by ITT, hopefully will arrive in April for John Allen Young, a victim of retinitis pigmentosa, an eye disease which starts with loss of night and peripheral vision and culminates in total blindness. The Granite City boy was tested at Fort Belvoir, Va., and found able to use the instrument, which is expected to cost $7,000.

Quite a welcoming committee was waiting for the two Youngs when they landed at the St. Louis airport.

First to greet John were his mother, Janet, and young sister, Tracy. Then his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cox of Granite City, Mrs. Ruby Smith of Venice, and Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Dickmeyer of Bridgeton, Mo.

One of John's closest friends, Richie Rojas of St. Peter, Mo., and members of the Granite City Rock Club, also were there.

John has difficulty seeing even when he wears glasses, and it's only a matter of time before he will be totally blind. He maintains a B-average at school by using textbooks with large print and recordings.

The rare, incurable disease has been with John at least since he was 5 and probably since birth, physicians have theorized.

It has progressed to the point where the boy has only center vision in daylight, seeing objects only directly in front of him. At night, objects are indistinguishable and have been for almost as long as he remembers.

Thanks to ITT's scientists and engineers, the Army's generosity and all others whose efforts culminated in John's successful journey to Washington, a young boy will get his first glimpse of the stars very soon.

Two backup systems in use at Granite City Steel were also part of Tuesday's demonstration.

One consists of a second larry car equipped with a portable jumper pipe. It provides an airtight seal for a coke oven while it is being charged with fresh coal from the larry car. Smoke is diverted into an adjacent, sealed oven instead of escaping into the air.

The second backup system consists of permanently-installed jumper pipes on one coke oven battery. They have the same function as the portable jumper pipe on the larry car.

2. THE $80 PAYMENT TO INDIVIDUALS WHO PAY NO TAXES ON 1974 INCOME. This proposal is said to be to offset higher costs of gasoline and other energy fuels. If such a payment were to be effective, it should be on a per capita basis. Further, it should be larger for low income households if it is to be effective in creating jobs.

3. SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS AND FOOD STAMPS. The proposals to limit the cost-of-living increases in Social Security checks to 6% and to raise how much people, including students, have to pay for food stamps are again pro-recession. Fortunately, the Congress does not go along with this idea, which would funnel money away from people who must of necessity spend it. The often-cited fiscal

4. OIL AND ENERGY CONSERVATION. The administration's program would raise prices of gasoline possibly by 10 cents a gallon and heating oil and natural gas possibly by 20%. The oil, coal, and other energy industries would be encouraged by such higher prices. Within 10 years, we could have 250 more coal mines, 30 more oil refineries, and 20 plants for converting oil shale to synthetic fuels. In order that the oil industry would not gain uncalled-for profits at public expense, taxes on fuels would be increased. Taxes on imported oil would be increased also in order to raise its price and gradually discourage consumption. The administration's program contains more to world-wide galloping inflation with no end in sight.

5. REDUCE BUSINESS PROFITS TAXES TO 42% AND INCREASE THE INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT TO 12%. Combining the effects of both of these proposals, corporate or business profits Federal income taxes could be reduced from 48% to 40% or by one-fifth, for the year 1975. This would be a windfall for corporations and owners of corporate stocks. The increase in investment credit is a long-range proposal and could not be expected to have much effect on immediate problems. Reduction of corporate taxes, based on the idea that since our American economic system has been so productive over the past 200 years, if it falters now, it must be because we have not acquired wealth fast enough. Thus, solution: The Federal government should encourage more saving by the "haves" and less consumption by the "have-nots."

6. ANTI-INFLATION MEASURES. In the past three or four years, the cost of living has increased at a disturbing rate. Inversely, the fall in how much the dollar will buy is tragic. Many old people on fixed incomes. The standard cure offered for this is to tighten up on Federal spending and reduce the supply of money. This response ignores how fast people elect to get rid of their dollars; that is, the rate of turnover of money. If dollars should move two times faster, other things equal, the existing supply of money would support a price level twice as high. Since 1971, the speed of movement of dollars has increased in exactly that way. It was in 1971 that the U.S. Treasury stopped honoring our deficits to foreigners in gold, and hence shifted the international money system from gold to paper. Some experts predicted that the paper system would lead to world-wide galloping inflation with no end in sight.

However, again the market system seems to be coming to the rescue in spite of faulty attempts to manage it. The world-wide easing of commodity prices and present easing of retail prices in the United States gives us a glimmer of hope that maybe the value of money can somewhat stabilize even on a world paper system.

In particular, the supply of money in the United States increased only 2% since last June, in spite of wrong effort by the Federal Reserve to step the monetary side, restriction of the growth of money.

We are gradually getting the right prescriptions for the current maladies of the system: rising Federal expenditures, directed by Congress toward low-income people, to make jobs, and a restriction of the money supply brought on by business and consumers. This slows down inflation. The Administration and Congress: Patterns of Economic Doctrine

By Prof. Louis S. Drake

(Dr. Drake is a professor in the department of economics of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Business. Dr. Drake's opinions are his own and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the faculty or administration of SIUE).

The anti-inflation, anti-recession measures outlined in President Ford's economic program would have shifted income away from families at the low end of the scale toward families who are better off. The energy measures deserve plus marks but are unnecessarily precipitate. The proposals to control inflation do not deal specifically with the problem of the value of money. In this article I shall discuss six of the proposals:

(1) the one-year tax cut,
 (2) the $80 payment,
 (3) Social Security and food stamps,
 (4) oil and energy,
 (5) business profits taxes, and
 (6) inflation.

1. THE ONE-YEAR "TAX CUT" IN A RE-BATE OF 12% ON 1974 INCOME TAXES, UP TO A MAXIMUM OF $1,000. Money laddled out under this proposal would be a gift in the year 1975 against 1975 federal revenues. Tying of this gift to 1974 income taxes makes it appear to be a tax refund. The final rewrite of the tax reduction bill in the House of Representatives directs most of the rebates to families earning less than $10,000 a year. With this change in emphasis, tax reduction can be expected to be effective as an anti-recession measure.

2. THE $80 PAYMENT TO INDIVIDUALS WHO PAY NO TAXES ON 1974 INCOME. This proposal is said to be to offset higher costs of gasoline and other energy fuels. If such a payment were to be effective, it should be on a per capita basis. Further, it should be larger for low income households if it is to be effective in creating jobs.

problems of Social Security will probably ultimately be solved in two ways: (1) shifting more of the cost to general revenues, and (2) by 1990-2000, raising the retirement age to 68.

Return to basics, Americans urged

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK — America's churches are facing the national Bicentennial with a challenge to get back to basics in a society sobered by Watergate, ecological imbalances, Vietnam and the rise of the third world.

That challenge has been spelled out by one of the country's foremost clergymen, the Rev. Dr. Ernest T. Campbell, preaching minister of Riverside Church in New York.

Campbell, sermonizing in winter instead of from the pulpit of the non-denominational Protestant church founded by the Rockefeller family, discussed "America As I See It" in the winter issue of the Journal of Current Social Issues, published by the board of the National Ministries of the United Church of Christ.

Although he holds hope for the future of America if it establishes high aims and values, he began with the gloomy observation that the salience of the Bicentennial "seem like husters trying to sell balloons during a plague."

"Who is in the mood for celebration today?" he asked, adding that while philanthropists and foundations compete for "Bicentennial points" in patriotism, "for the rest of us... the daily spectacle of inflation, unemployment, racism, crime rapacity in high places and international banditry in oil is giving us all we can handle and more."

Campbell believes the country is going through a period of "interim cynicism" in which the dominating mood has changed from "don't trust anyone or 30" to "don't trust anyone." He gave these basic reasons for cynicism.

— The "myth" of national innocence has been dispelled. "Through generations, the country was determined to be a 'showcase' of the right way to absorb differences at home and defend the rights of others abroad."

In the course of doing this, Americans became blinded against their own wrongdoings — acts against American Indians, alibis for slavery, the use of force to annex territory and "our more recent habit of backing to the death repressive governments in Cuba, Spain, Vietnam, Chile, etc."

"Within the last 10 years the comforting myth of national innocence has crumbled," Campbell observed. "Watergate and its attendant subplots have given Americans a moment of truth. Within the biblical metaphor, we are no longer in Eden. The garden is behind us now, its gates closed and guarded. We cannot go back. We can only go on."

— The individualism that once was America's strength is now threatening destruction. While rugged individualism was responsible for the settlement of the West, "no society can long endure when every man does only what is right and profitable in his own eyes," according to Campbell. He foresees many lingering problems "as long as we polarize personal well-being and the public good."

— After decades as the "melting pot" on which world history turned, America was unprepared to cope with the rise of third world power, with the shift of strength from West to East, from white to nonwhite and from the Northern to the Southern Hemisphere.

"How hard it is to believe, really believe," Campbell says, "that in years to come we will have to do with less in order that others may have more... A giant step in the right direction would be the acquisition of a realistic sense of history."

Health hazards concern many as city election nears

Granite City voters will decide Tuesday, April 1, between Lionel A. Portell, superintendent of streets for the past four years, and Mac Warfield, who is a son of former Street Supt. Bill Warfield.

The choice is not an easy one to make. Both candidates have something to offer and also a drawback.

Supt. Portell is a husky, likeable and experienced official with 18 years as a member of the street department. But he is widely regarded as having failed to get the most out of the staff, weakening the level of street services. Dissatisfied taxpayers are numerous, as a result.

The challenger has outlined specific ways to beef up services, and would devote his full time to the job. He can benefit from the suggestions of his father, who is waging an active campaign. But the son's 26 years at Granite City still do not include direct experience related to city streets.

Not all of the problems stem from the present superintendent. He does not control the level of spending for street construction, manpower and equipment. And the prevalence of sewer breaks has placed an added burden on the tasks handled by the department.

Nevertheless, he has diverted men and material to activities unrelated to his responsibilities. And there is a marked contrast between what is currently being accomplished and the volume of work performed prior to the pre-election period. Many people feel there is a lack of uniformity between the caliber of services in various neighborhoods.

This week, Mr. Portell continued to defend his decision to drain raw sewage into the Nameoki storm-water ditch, even though there is concern that this could lead to health hazards and possibly an epidemic.

The superintendent prefers this risk to the entire community rather than backups into several homes that have not yet been equipped with basement drain shutoff valves.

The health-endangering policy apparently isn't going to be changed, short of court action, unless voters change it. We favor the election of Mr. Warfield.

Opposition April 1 for four of seven Council posts

Seven Granite City aldermen are to be elected April 1. Our comments on the issues that have developed follow.

FIRST WARD—Everett Morlen, 65, an alderman for six years, seeks re-election against two opponents, James C. Stuart, 40, and Charles R. Douglas, 24. All promise energetic efforts to improve living conditions and municipal services.

Mr. Stuart, a Granite City Steel employee 22 years, has been active in community service. Some of his campaign proposals relate more to the Park District, the Housing Authority and the Port District than to the city government, and his proposals on police utilization and opposition to drug abuse also are somewhat beyond the scope of City Council responsibilities. But his ideas on drainage relief, industrial development and humane department services might be useful.

A second-year lawyer, Mr. Douglas holds a degree in mechanical engineering and could bring a fresh approach to some of the issues facing the city.

We are inclined to favor the incumbent on the basis of his knowledge of city government and his experience on a number of Council committees. Newly retired, he could devote much time to the aldermanic duties.

SECOND WARD—An alderman for 20 years, Sam Whitmer, 59, is running for a sixth consecutive four-year term. He merits re-election due to his past efforts to solve needs of the ward and city, and due to his current proposals regarding traffic and sewers.

His opponent, Melvin Hill, 45, also has studied traffic issues. And Mr. Hill makes a good point in saying, "It is vital that we be ready to receive those businesses which would like to locate in Granite City; if we are, the rewards will be great. The revenue generated by these businesses—and the jobs they will provide—will lessen the tax burden on the individual citizen."

THIRD WARD—Clyde Boyd, unopposed, is recommended for a new term. He has served on the City Council for 14 years.

FOURTH WARD—Warren Decatur is endorsed as a capable engineer and businessman with long service in church, fraternal and community activities.

A former member of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners and of the Granite City Electrical Commission, he has been prominent in voluntary programs to prevent crime and improve traffic and transportation.

His training and experience could prove helpful in coping with such challenges as sewers, drainage, railroad crossings and the proposed West Granite City overpass. Decatur is 57 and, with his children grown, feels he could spend considerable time on municipal problem solving.

His opponent, Glen Sprinkle, 34, an American Steel Foundries patternmaker, has been active in civic groups and as a Democratic committeeman. He is knowledgeable about issues facing the city and has offered constructive proposals to deal with them.

FIFTH WARD—Walter F. Nonn has no opposition in extending his City Council service from 32 to 36 years, an unprecedented tenure.

SIXTH WARD—Also unopposed, Alderman Gerald Parmley pledges to strive for such goals as Maryville Road extension, a new overpass and annexation. He has served as an alderman for 12 years.

SEVENTH WARD—Incumbent Alderman Emerald Dawes, 52, with eight years of City Council service, is a candidate along with Frank Vesci, 58, a former alderman; Donald Partney Jr., 36, son of the late Mayor Partney; and Daniel Sparks, 18, a 1974 Granite City High School North graduate employed at the Pizza Hut.

Mr. Vesci, Swift and Co. industrial relations manager, proposes an updated traffic control program and improvement of streets and sidewalks.

Mr. Sparks has prepared comprehensive plans to deal with sewer breaks and other city problems. As the youngest Granite City alderman to seek elective office, he cites widespread disenchantment among teenagers and young adults. He says his election could prove that "the system works" for people of all ages.

Alderman Dawes has been a tireless alderman with a long list of completed improvement projects as well as extensive participation in athletic, church and veterans' activities.

President of Granite Sheet Metal Works and of the Southern Illinois Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Mr. Partney has served as library vicepresident and is president-elect of the Madison County Chapter of the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers. He would stress avoidance of deficit spending, communication with citizens, traffic flow and attention to crossing and drainage problems.

Both Mr. Dawes and Mr. Partney are well equipped to serve ably in the Seventh Ward position.

Equipment hampers street services

To the Editor:

On April 1 there will be a very important election, for superintendent of streets which is important to every homeowner in Granite City.

As Alderman of the 5th Ward, I have had many meetings with Mr. Portell, but that is the alderman's job to get as much done as he can as possible.

These are some of the things you should consider when voting. Do you want to give up a street superintendent with 18 years of working experience on the department for one with none at all? The following reasons are why we cannot get things done as fast as we would like to.

Mr. Portell has two old road graders and one is not even in working order. He has two salt spreaders and no snow plows. How can you expect to clean streets after ice and snowstorms without enough equipment?

He has 26 men in his crew and out of that as high as six men are working constantly on pumps at Nameoki sewers. He also has two men on the sewer truck that have saved the taxpayers many dollars opening their sewers.

During the past few years the city has had 150 houses torn down and the street department helped wreck and clean up afterwards.

He has had hundreds of trees cut and also picked up brush that homeowners have cut in their yards and put out on the streets. This takes a great deal of time; this is a service that the superintendent doesn't have to do.

He has also laid many blocks of curb and gutter and patched many holes and blow-ups in streets.

Many alleys have also been rocked. Lionel himself has spent many days and nights on the Nameoki sewer breaks and Doreby Slough problems.

We have an engineer who receives $15,000 a year and his assistant $15,000. Both do not live in Granite City. For that money, we could get a first-class engineer who would set up programs, especially in the Nameoki area, which has many problems.

Everytime we have to have something done we have to hire a special engineer to do it.

I certainly haven't seen any of these engineers out on contractors or others if objects are unsuccessful.

Mr. Portell has four children and attends church regularly. People, do you realize that if defeated he will not have a job.

I have been alderman 32 years and he is one of the few who is not tied to any political organization. He depends on the people who vote to elect him on his record.

His opponent is a fine fellow who has a good job at Granite City Steel. His father was on the public payrolls many years and it seems he wants to run the street department by remote control via the politicians in Granite City.

I ask the people of my ward and the people of Granite City to consider his record and remember that you can only do with the equipment and manpower you have.

WALTER F. NONN
Alderman, Fifth Ward

Why crew busy only before election?

To the Editor:

Doesn't it seem strange that we are suddenly getting all these little services from the street department?

Just remember, this is only before the election day.

We have needed services and a good street superintendent for four years—not just three or four months out of four years!

Just take a good look at our serious problems that we have not been able to get help on—such as our alleys, tree trimming, brush hauling, street and sewer repairs, storm water drainage, etc.

Little things are suddenly being done—in some locations—must be for your vote at election time. How stupid does he think we are? We can read between the lines.

Let's elect a good man, Mac Warfield, who will make us a good street superintendent just as his father, "Bill" Warfield was for us for years.

Let's all please get out and vote for the betterment of Granite City and its taxpayers.

CLAUDE GREEN
Alderman, Fourth Ward

Say neighborhood lacks a candidate

To the Editor:

The people of West Granite have been short-changed by Alderman Green's late decision not to run? It certainly seems so.

In waiting until the last minute to not file for the office of alderman, he leaves our area without a candidate.

West Granite needs representation. Let's be very careful in our selection for alderman and street superintendent. Let's examine the qualification and experience of all those running for these two positions.

Not only Ward Four, but the entire city, needs the best qualified and most experienced people to lead.

We urge everyone in the entire area to go to the polls on April 1 and vote for experience and leadership.

LOGAN AVENUE
COUPLE

Foremen proud of accomplishments

To the Editor:

Someone has said that the membership of an organization or group is made up of four bones:

There are the wish bones who spend all their time wishing somebody would do the work.

There are the jaw bones who do all the talking but very little of anything else.

There are the knuckle bones who "knock" what everybody else tries to do.

And finally there are the back bones who get the load and do the work.

The street department is the backbone of Granite City. Their daily tasks are sometimes insurmountable—sometimes not.

We feel that we have given the people of our community the best service we could possibly have given them these past four years.

We are very proud of the many accomplishments that have been made. We hope people join us at the polls on April 1 and cast their vote for our bones.

Passover—a time of thankfulness

To the Editor:

As spring arrives, we turn our thoughts from winter cold to the anticipation of the Passover-Easter season and the warm temperatures, new clothes and festive joy it brings.

Passover begins this year at 5:34 p.m. (sunset) Wednesday, March 27, and continues for eight days through April 3.

The Jewish meal eaten on the first day of Passover, and called "Seder," is eaten after sunset March 26.

This is one of the most meaningful and joyous days on the Jewish calendar, and Jews everywhere will make the same special efforts to be home with family and friends, that non-Jews do to be home at Christmas.

The Passover theme is that of a people rescued from death in most other countries.

Ask Hans H. and he will tell you that after World War I there was a shortage of literally everything, and one stood in line for long hours to get even basic staples of life.

Hans couldn't trust his eyes when he first came to this country and got a job as a busboy, to see people take two or three bites and throw away a half-chicken.

So you see, we of all people, are most thankful at this season.

Thankful for that event thousands of years ago, but even more thankful for all we have today.

May God inspire you to worship Him at this season, and may He bless you with heart-felt peace.

Council candidate would be energetic

To the Editor:

Charlie Douglas is a young man well qualified to be the First Ward alderman. He has shown me that he would be an industrious, intelligent and worthy City Councilman.

I met him on his initiative and talked with him at length. He was friendly, a willing listener, and a strong advocate of returning politics to the people. Discussions with other First Ward voters who also know him have proved to them and me that he should be our alderman.

He expressed us as being sincere and truly concerned about solving our civic problems.

City Hall affects our living conditions more closely than any state or federal government. Therefore, this election is a very important one.

I know the other candidates running in the ward and I have weighed the qualifications and desire of them all. My vote on April 1 will be cast for Charles R. Douglas.

Citizens free to back any candidate

To the Editor:

In reply to a letter in which I was accused of intimidation because of a political sign of my opponent being in a former worker's yard—

Mr. Bunker asked me, originally, about the possibility of putting a mobile home on his lot.

I told him that the aldermen could not have had any to do with that anymore; that it was up to the people around them giving approval and then inspection by the city inspector, in compliance with the city ordinance.

I know that I jokingly commented on his sign then. I found that, later, one of my workers had added some comments to

Mr. Bunker about the sign she had in her yard.

If what I may have jokingly said, or if any comments any of my workers made, were made to the Bunkers, has caused them anxiety or grief, I must humbly apologize.

I firmly believe in the rights of everyone to all the freedoms, including freedom of expression.

Far prior to the letter from Mrs. Bunker, I had made arrangements for her to work as a driver in what was part of my old yard and was in a different ward (3). As far as I know, she still has that arrangement.

EVERETT MORLEN
Alderman, First Ward

Maryland Heights—

To the Editor:

Thank you for reporting the problems that confront the residents of the Maryland Heights area of the Seventh Ward.

As residents of this area, a petition was circulated and signed by many of us, asking for something to be done about the poor conditions that exist.

In presenting our petition, a letter was given to our alderman. This letter was presented to the city clerk, who read it to the council members. The letter was as follows:

"To 7th Ward Aldermen Emerald Dawes and Ronald Coleman—

"We, the people in the Maryland Heights Addition of the 7th Ward, on Franklin Avenue, and the adjoining streets, are very disturbed about the conditions that exist in our area."

"We are protesting the manner in which our tax money is being used by the council members. We feel that we have become a forgotten area and would like to see conditions changed."

"We are very concerned about the poor conditions of our streets, sewers, curbs, gutters and our drainage problems, including water standing at corners and cross streets. We would also like to have protective sidewalks where needed."

"As residents and taxpayers of large sums of money being paid to our city from this area, we are organizing together to ask for 100 per cent of your efforts to improve these conditions as soon as possible."

"Residents of this area not previously contacted, who are interested in any future meeting, may telephone 876-2888 or 876-8818."

"Thank you again, for printing this letter. We can assure you that we will continue to make every effort to resolve our problems."

Street department fills private lot chuckholes

To the Editor:

I noted with great interest the picture and story on private party chuckholes being filled by Street Department personnel at the direction of the superintendent of streets, Mr. Portell.

Mr. Portell must have had many a chuckhole filled on private property during his term, since he has never been able to stay within his budget in any year.

Check it out. It's cost the taxpayers more and more for less and less services.

That is, unless you have a chuckhole in your yard to be filled.

18 years of experience aid GC street official

To the Editor:

We have 18 years' experience guiding the Granite City Street Department and this experience is being used to give the citizens of Granite City the best service we always wanted and needed.

We think we should retain this experience by supporting Lionel Portell for superintendent of streets April 1.

He has also saved money for Granite City by keeping pumps going with his personnel.

For the amount of travel going over St. Clair Avenue, he has done an excellent job keeping it in good condition, considering the fact that the City Council has not deemed it necessary to improve the two blocks that are not paved."

Couple being harassed at apartment in city

To the Editor:

What's happening to our law enforcement in Granite City? My daughter and her husband have been harassed by a neighbor for two weeks or more.

The neighbor calls the police on them two or three times a day, both when they aren't home and when they are in bed asleep.

My daughter and her husband went out to make a phone call to us and when they got back home the neighbor had nailed both their doors shut.

The policeman knew this, for he held the flashlight for them to pry the doors open. The police saw all the eggs that had been thrown at their door. They say there is nothing they can do.

Someone set a fire on their living room window ledge. The police came, but nothing could be done.

No one is willing to help my daughter out.

The state's attorney's office was called; the city attorney's office was called, and the mayor.

But no results. Whom do I go to next? My daughter lives in Kirkpatrick Homes.

To the Editor:

To paraphrase the lyrics to an old song—"What a Difference a Year Makes."

Last year we had to shovel and slide and stall and stammer while waiting for the superintendent of streets to get organized for snow removal and salting of streets.

Comes an election year and presto—prompt proliferation of the salt and cinders. It takes an election year to do the job.

If it should snow between now and April 1, or if you need brush cleared away, just pick up the phone, dial the superintendent of streets, and utter the magic words, "It's Election Year."

Yes, what a difference a year makes.

Four seeking two positions on Park Board in Venice

Among the elective offices to be filled next Tuesday are two positions on the Venice Park Board.

Both incumbents are running. They are John F. Mitchell, with 18 years of experience, and Mrs. Ola Dandridge, a park commissioner for the past eight years. A retired railroad employee, Mr. Mitchell is the current president of the five-member board.

Other Venice park candidates are Mrs. Valeta Bauder, a railroad rate clerk, and John H. Williams, a Levee and Sanitary District employee who devotes much time to Venice area service organizations.

All are attractive candidates and could serve well. Mr. Williams' ideas on expanding to year-around recreation program deserve serious consideration by the board.

Foreign aid supply expert heads BPW Club

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer
Mrs. Rosemary F. Baseden, an international logistics specialist, was elected president of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at its "Public Relations Night" dinner meeting last week at Charlie's Restaurant.

She succeeds Miss Annellen Smith in the office.
A Granite City resident, who has been active in the local business women's club for several years as an officer, chairman and member, Mrs. Baseden is employed by the Aviation Systems Command, U. S. Army, in the International Logistics division, at St. Louis.

Her responsibility involves supply program and grants-in-aid from the United States to several specific foreign countries.
Principal speaker at the dinner was George W. Carson, outdoor expert, columnist and editor, whose career of more than 40 years has included the roles of newspaperman, columnist, professor, sports announcer and public relations and promotion director.

Widely-acclaimed as an expert fisherman, Carson acknowledged the best trout fishing at the present time is in the White River, below the dam at Bull Shoals Lake, Mo.

He noted the lake "is quite high at the moment, but they are really pulling them out pretty good." He also commented that Lake Taneycombe is "coming back, but people just don't know how to fish it, that's the trouble."

Carson's talk, however focused on the ability of an individual, organization or business to project the image it is trying to achieve.

"Public relations, basically is what the public or person you deal with think of you or your business. No matter what business you are in, it is your attitude, your manner, your beliefs and how you approach a problem that counts," Carson said.

"Know your business or subject. Know the overall picture of the company you are working for... its purpose, objectives. Know the people you are dealing with... their ideals, goals and principles."

"The number one problem in the United States today is the lack of ability to communicate. We live in a wonderful age and I think we are inclined to forget this fact. We have lost sight of the achievements which have been made in the past 75 years. They are remarkable. Things we now take for granted would have been miracles in your grandparents' day."

"In light of today's society, we must have clear vision... changes are effected so rapidly. We must understand the dynamics of public opinion, for it is the court of public opinion which holds the answer to many attitudes we have today and to the problems before us."

the speaker stated.
"Attitudes and opinions grow like vegetables according to what they are fed."

"Public relations never have been so important as now, but it all starts with you as an individual, whether it is your club program, your business life or your own personal image," Carson said.

Miss Annellen Smith, BPW president, was in charge of the business session.

Others elected to serve with Mrs. Baseden in 1976-77 are: Mrs. Sylvia Wright, president-elect; Mrs. Lorene Sedrakula, first vice-president; Mrs. Lois Wetton, second vice-president; Mrs. La Velle Stephens, recording secretary; Mrs. Marjorie Shields, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elvira Thurber, treasurer; and Mrs. Madama Groshong, Mrs. Maude Chilton and Mrs. Barbara Hodges, members of the board of directors.

Miss Smith announced the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will hold its state convention April 24 to April 27 at the Marriott Hotel, Chicago.

"Public relations, basically is what the public or person you deal with think of you or your business. No matter what business you are in, it is your attitude, your manner, your beliefs and how you approach a problem that counts," Carson said.

"Know your business or subject. Know the overall picture of the company you are working for... its purpose, objectives. Know the people you are dealing with... their ideals, goals and principles."

"The number one problem in the United States today is the lack of ability to communicate. We live in a wonderful age and I think we are inclined to forget this fact. We have lost sight of the achievements which have been made in the past 75 years. They are remarkable. Things we now take for granted would have been miracles in your grandparents' day."

Other candidates and their club sponsor who were honored at the dinner, included:

Mrs. Lillian M. (Gauger) Chapley, Cascade Temple 216; Mrs. Madama Groshong, Venice Women's Club; Mrs. Harriet Horn, Ladies Center; Mrs. Clara Parker, Minerva Woman's Club; Miss Sylvia Turner, Daughters of Union Veterans, Tent 96; and Mrs. Patricia E. Polley, Thorngate Garden Club.

Mrs. Shirley Adams, BPW public relations chairman, who was in charge of the dinner, announced the contest judges as Mrs. Margaret Lee, a director and public relations officer of the First National Bank in Madison; Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Edward P. Reiske, executive secretary, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Lee spoke briefly, noting the impressive qualifications and backgrounds of all candidates had made the selection of a single person "a most difficult task."

The "Woman of the Year" award winner was promoted to her present position as consumer information representative in February, having previously served 28 years as home economist for the utility firm.

In her current job, Mrs. Meyer is responsible for disseminating company information to the public, answering inquiries from customers and evaluating and reporting customer opinion and attitude relative to company policy.

She conducts consumer education classes at schools throughout Madison County, including SIUE, and coordinates and conducts general information programs, such as films, talks and demonstrations, for adult and youth groups.

Mrs. Meyer is a graduate of Williamstown (Mo.) High School and Northeast Missouri State University at Kirksville.

She is past president of the Women's Division, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, and has served as chairman of the beautification committee for five years, carrying out projects in all areas of the Quad-Cities. She initiated the non-profit "Flowering Crabapple Tree" sale five years ago.

Her other affiliations include: Current treasurer and board member, Tri-City Chapter, American Red Cross; Recycling Center chairman and board member, Coordinated Youth Services; director, United Way (United Fund); former officer and member, St. Louis Home Economists in Business Group; committee chairman, Illinois Home Economics Association, District V; a past officer and former member, Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club; Order of Eastern Star member; and member of the Second Presbyterian Church, St. Louis.

Working with youth has occupied a major portion of Mrs. Meyer's life. She has taught hundreds of Girl Scouts to cook and use appliances properly and an equal number of 4-H club youths in all phases of electrical use and safety. She has written a booklet on correct laundry procedures and recipe sheets for consumers, emphasizing food buying tips and low cost meals.

In addition to the "Woman of the Year" candidates, also honored by the Granite City BPW Club were Bob Baker, Radio Station Wenu news director, Mrs. Charlotte Edmonds of East St. Louis and Mrs. Valerie Evenden of the Press-Record, all of whom received certificates of award.

NO, NO, A MILLION TIMES NO! Cathy Cassy's obvious alarm and Jim Fensterman's threatening pose graphically tell the plot of the classic melodrama now under rehearsal by the East Bank Players for presentation April 25 and 26. Cathy portrays Nellie Quackenbush, heroine and farmer's daughter. Fensterman plays Stafford Blackman, the city slicker villain.

The same Cub Scouts group toured the Granite City Public Library Tuesday afternoon.

Assisting the leader at the outdoor event were Keith Towery, Ginger Skaggs, Kathy and Walter Towery and a guest, Eugene Moore.

Graduate School is gaining in stature

Overall enrollment of the Graduate School at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has increased by at least 13 per cent for each of the last two years.

And Dean Vaughn Lindsay foresees an era of continued growth because of the emphasis on research and instructional quality, and the student demand for advanced programming at the university.

SIUE has a total of 2,513 students enrolled in Graduate School this academic year, up nearly 600 from the fall of 1972.

Faculty research activity increased 35 per cent at SIUE last year; this year, the number of researchers submitting proposals to the Research Scholar Award Program has doubled.

Pointing to the importance of 1975 in the growth of the local university, Dean Lindsay said,

"We face two major challenges — the launching of our first doctoral program, and the evaluation of our student clientele and our entire university resources. We will evaluate faculty, programs, libraries and laboratories as we seek accreditation at this higher level of graduate programming."

The doctoral program to which the dean referred is the "doctor of education in the instructional process."

It was approved by the Illinois Board of Higher Education

(IBHE) in November, and the first students in the program will be admitted this fall.

"Inquiries continue to flood the School of Education as word of the pending doctoral program spreads," Dean Lindsay said. "There are far more applicants than the school can admit in the first year of the program."

The Graduate School dean acknowledges a strong regional need for graduate programs. She said the demand for doctoral programs has been documented through recent surveys through the Schools of Education, Business, and Science and Technology.

"If you separate the state into four equal segments by drawing lines from east to west, you can compare by region the opportunities afforded Illinois residents for advanced graduate and professional education," Dean Lindsay said.

"Around the Chicago area, there are seven publicly supported institutions which offer such opportunities. In the next area south of the Chicago area, five institutions offer graduate programs."

"In the next segment, SIUE is the only graduate school, just as Carbondale is the only graduate school in the extreme southern portion of the state."

The dean believes SIUE has become a university that is noted for its excellence as well as the fact that it has a geographic location that fits the needs of a large number of people.

"The quality of SIUE faculty, libraries and physical facilities has been judged more than adequate by eight consultants who have been brought to campus by the various schools within the last year and a half," she said.

"But we must continue to do everything just a little better — everything from our routine activities to our major tasks of teaching, research and administering of activities."

The goal of improving the quality of the institution has been accepted this year by the Graduate School's work on a Faculty Development Proposal.

Bob Russo, associate dean, collected data from numerous sources and convened teachers from all disciplines on campus.

"We were amazed at the breadth and depth of faculty interest and at some of the independent efforts at self-improvement in which various professors were independently involved," Dean Lindsay said.

"Maybe the project — which is voluntary — will only help those professors who are already excellent teachers. But the spirit is contagious, and I predict and hope that we will have an 'epidemic.'"

SIUE has nearly 40 graduate programs. Last year, the university received approval to add master's programs in urban studies and mass communications, as well as the institution's first doctoral program.

A master of science program in chemistry and biochemistry is pending before the IBHE, and the Graduate Council and vice-president and provost have approved a master of science in management systems. The proposal must be submitted to the SIUE Board of Trustees before going to the IBHE for final approval.

Cass Leighty, a staff assistant in charge of graduate records, is convinced that "new programs mean additional enrollment."

"The addition of new programs has resulted in increased applications to the whole Graduate School, rather than reduced applications to established programs," she said.

Programs that have shown an upward trend in applications since the fall of 1972 include: art and design, biology, business administration, chemistry, counselor education, city and regional planning, economics, educational administration, education, theater, speech government, history, instructional technology, physics, physical education, psychology, special education, theater, speech pathology and audiology.

Despite its growth, the Graduate School has had to take its share of budget cuts this year. "We've had to make some difficult budgetary decisions in accomplishing what we have with the same or less personnel," Dean Lindsay related.

The school has had other challenges as well as budget problems. The dean pointed out trends in non-traditional programming that have complicated admission procedures.

The problem led to an office efficiency study of delaying factors. As a result, the time required for a student to be admitted to a graduate program was reduced by two-thirds.

"This has to be the year in which we concentrate on improving our institution," Dean Lindsay said.

"It means constant evaluation and assessment to make sure we are adequately meeting the priorities we've set. We don't want students to attend SIUE only because they can't go elsewhere else."

"We want instruction and research on this campus to be of such quality that alumni will be both proud and supportive — proud of the faculty they attend, and supportive of the university's future endeavors."

Darryl Smith, probation officer of the Third Judicial Circuit Court at Edwardsville, and John Jansen, resource coordinator of the probation department, were speakers at the Thursday noon meeting of the Optimist Club at the YMCA.

Both men outlined details of the Madison County probation program in which volunteers are used as supervisors of youngsters who have no one to care for them or who otherwise become wards of the court.

Club members were urged to attend Maundy Thursday services at the First Presbyterian Church at noon March 27, and were told that tickets must be obtained in advance. Tickets are $2.75 for the luncheon program that will be attended by service club members of the area.

Tentative plans were discussed for a club-sponsored golf outing that will be held in late August or early September.

Narcotics abuse program for PTA

Gary Burns of the Madison County Sheriff's Department gave a talk on drugs, illustrated with an exhibit of various narcotics, at last week's meeting of Mitchell School PTA.

Mrs. Viva Elliott, president, introduced the guest speaker and conducted the business session.

Plans were announced for the school picnic on May 24 at Wilson Park, with each classroom to receive $10 to be used towards games. Each pupil will receive tickets for refreshments.

A 10 per cent increase in PTA enrollment has been noted this year, Mrs. Elliott said.

Special recognition was accorded to Francis Cuevas, who received a life membership at the PTA Area Council awards dinner.

Brownie Troop 75, led by Mrs. Karen Hutchings, presented the colors.

After the meeting, the "Wizard of Oz" was performed by Miss Cassie Dudley's language arts group.

Swine feeding, health tips

INSURANCE CALL COCHRANE-WOLF Agency 874-1767 — 877-2345

By DALE A. LAW
Agricultural Extension Adviser
"Management" is a word that covers the entire farming operation. In short, it's getting the most from the money you invest. And it may mean cutting costs of production in your operation.

Here are some feeding and herd health management tips to consider for your swine operation. They may not all fit into your particular plan. But, deciding which management route to follow is the challenge to livestock production.

Maintaining herd health involves a number of problems.
One kind can be controlled by preventive measures such as routine disease testing and vaccination programs. It is especially important to test incoming breeding stock for brucellosis and vaccinate for leptospirosis and cryptosporidiosis.

The second, less-dramatic problem is the day-to-day disease symptoms that often go unnoticed. And they probably cause more dollar loss than do the major diseases. Such diseases as mycoplasma pneumonia, rhinitis, and internal and external parasites are often found in combinations that can become expensive.

To prevent losses from herd health problems, follow these suggestions:

1. Establish and follow a regular and routine program of internal and external parasite control.
2. Be on the alert for any changes in the animal's behavior, haircoat or appetite.
3. Buy replacement boars from U.S. farms that are following a

program.
4. Restrict traffic of people, off-farm trucks, and animals in the hog operation.

Pigs make the best use of high-moisture corn if it is fed in a complete mixed ration. But they will gain slightly slower than fed ration of normal corn. Formulate mixtures on a dry-matter basis, otherwise too much water will be used.

Use the following levels of protein supplement in different rations: creep and starter, 18 to 20 per cent; grower, 16 per cent; finisher, 14 per cent; lactation, 14 per cent; gestation (if sows are fed all they want), 12 per cent.

lower than these given above results in less scours right after weaning. But remember, pigs under 30 pounds tend to use about five per cent more feed when fed lower starters.

Rations should contain
adequate, but not excessive
levels of minerals and vitamins.
These are relatively inexpensive, but important parts of
fortification can result in im-balanced rations. Furnishing adequate amounts of vitamins
adds little to the cost of a ration,
but deficiencies can be costly.

During gestation, bred girls should gain about 70 pounds, and second-litter or older sows
should gain about 40 pounds.
Getting these gains will require around four pounds of feed per head per day in confinement.
Sows or girls running outside may need an additional 5 to 1 pound of feed.

justed to suit the condition of the hogs.

Antibiotics have more value when feed is high priced. The pigs' performance is no greater, but the feed saved is more valuable. When corn and supplement prices are lower, antibiotics in finishing rations may only pay for their own cost.
Feed antibiotics up to market weight or until the required withdrawal time for products that must be removed before marketing.

Rations should contain
adequate, but not excessive
levels of minerals and vitamins.
These are relatively inexpensive, but important parts of
the rations. Too much mineral fortification can result in im-balanced rations. Furnishing adequate amounts of vitamins
adds little to the cost of a ration,
but deficiencies can be costly.

conversion was only about 10 per cent better for pigs on normal corn rations than for the pigs eating 40-per cent moisture corn.

In trials with corn and supplement fed free-choice, pigs on normal corn gained 1.88 pounds per day. The pigs on 40-per cent moisture corn gained 1.48 pounds per day. The rations containing 30-per cent moisture corn showed little difference in feed-conversion performance from the normal corn rations.

Barrows from each feeding group were slaughtered and closely inspected. There was no evidence of any dietary effect on the carcass or internal organs.

Palatability of the highmoisture corn is often a problem. To get the most out of high-moisture corn, grind the corn and feed it in complete mixed rations on a day-to-day basis.

Regional disaster coordination

Partly representatives of federal, state, county and municipal agencies, public utilities and private service groups met for a late-March "roundtable discussion" of plans and capabilities for coping with large-scale disasters, such as floods, tornadoes, earthquakes and transportation accidents with hazardous fuels or chemicals.

The discussion was sponsored by the St. Louis Federal Executive Board and was chaired by Col. Thorwald R.
Peterson, St. Louis district engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Col.
Peterson also is chairman of the Disaster Preparedness Task Force of the FEB.

Although the meeting had been timed to stimulate coordination at the beginning of the prime flood season, Col.
Peterson and Bob Hamilton, new meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service office, opened the session by predicting that the potential for widespread Mississippi River flooding seems greatly reduced as compared to the past several years.

They cautioned, however, that localized or flash flooding is always a possibility and cannot be predicted with any certainty.

Disastrous flooding in 1973 emphasized the need for close coordination among the key groups involved in emergency operations, it was concluded.
Purpose of the meeting was to promote this goal by concentrating on the inter-related and supporting roles of the participating agencies and institutions.

Diane Parrish becomes Mrs. Gary Noel Powers

Miss Diane Elaine Parrish became the bride of Gary Noel Powers in an early evening ceremony on Feb. 22 at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road.

Dr. James R. Craddock, pastor of Augusta, Christian Church of Indianapolis, Ind., formerly of Granite City, performed the double-ring service at 5 o'clock in the evening.

Spiral candelabra holding burning white tapers, festooned with red carnations, white mums and baby's breath, were placed on each side of the altar which was decorated with white flowers.

Jack Jenkins presided at the organ for soloist Mrs. Joseph C. Bilbey, and Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hanson, who sang a duet.

Selections included "Sunrise, Sunset," "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Parrish, 2544 Waterman Ave. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Mildred Powers, 2126 Johnson Road, and C. Noel Powers of St. Louis.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Parrish wore a full-length gown fashioned in white maracaine complemented with a mantilla veil edged with Venice lace.

A wide band of Venice lace marked the V-neckline, encircled the Empire waistline and accented the long bishop sleeves.

Maid of honor Miss Cynthia Adams and bridesmaids, Miss Sally Schwegler, Miss Judy Parrish, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Laura Aerne, were dressed alike in long red polyester gowns.

Their dresses were designed in an A-line style and worn with short long-sleeved jackets featuring a self fabric ruffle defining the V-neckline.

The honor attendant held a colonial bouquet of red silk carnations and white roses, encircled with lace and tied with white satin streamers. Each bridesmaid held a similar floral arrangement of red carnations intermingled with white lace and white ribbons.

Kyle Schumacher, a cousin of the bride, served as the ringbearer.

Dennis Vogeler attended the groom as best man. Richard Powers, a cousin of the groom, John Jones, Duane Parrish, the bride's brother, and Bruce Gordon completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Parrish chose a formal-length gown and jacket ensemble of hot pink polyester. Her Empire-style dress was created with a high collar and A-line skirt.

A rehearsal dinner also was served at the St. Louis hotel in members of the bridal party.

Both young people are graduates of Granite City High School. The bride is employed as a reservationist at the Mayfair Hotel. Her husband attended Belleville Junior College and the St. Louis Police Academy. He is working as a police officer with the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department.

They are residing in St. Louis. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Evans, Carthage, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Edwards, Ash Grove, Mo.; Mrs. Hazen Parrish, Lisa and Darren Parrish and Gloria Edwards, Walnut Grove, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crie, Paducah, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Livingston, Chesterfield, Mo.

Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Laromere, Mrs. Linda Brooks, Mrs. George Walker and son David, all of Lester-ville, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Martin of O'Fallon, Mo.

CHILDREN Mom feels guilty about job

By DR. WILLARD ABRAM

Q. If we are to make ends meet, I have to work to help support our family. We have three children, and I've always said I would be home until the youngest is of school age. He is now only 4.

I've been offered a very good job, but I feel guilty about accepting it. Can you give me any advice?

A. If there is a well-operated nursery school available to you, your feeling of guilt really should go away. But check out the preschool very carefully.

There is some research indicating that the children of working mothers are actually better adjusted than those of nonworking mothers.

Of course, that wouldn't be true in every family. However, it could be so in yours if you need the job, enjoy it, plan to spend time with your youngsters anyway, and he's well cared for during the day.

Q. Is it really important to read to young children? I get so tired of reading the same old stories, I'd have to admit that our 2-year-old loves them. He even knows some of them almost by heart, but they're so dull and tiresome for me.

A. Yes, it is of value to read to young children, but not to the point where it's a burden on the parent. One approach is to have the parents take turns. Unless there's some adult interest and enthusiasm brought to the reading, it can become a bore for both grow-up and young child.

Another way to relieve the burden a bit is to make a deal with your little boy. "I'll read this one you love if I then read this other beautiful (exciting, wonderful) one." Then, after a time or two the latter selection may also become a favorite.

Experts in this field feel that reading to young children is an important step in their learning to enjoy reading themselves. So please try to not give it up.

Q. I want to know my child's exact IQ score, and I think I'm entitled to it. But his teacher will not provide this information. Don't you think she should make it available to me? After all,

Testimony links phone rates, service quality

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has warned that rate relief is needed to maintain reliable telephone service and that the company will present evidence to prove it.

The company said it "will demonstrate that earnings have been insufficient and inadequate in the past — and that they will be insufficient and inadequate in the future — to provide revenue" required to keep on an even keel.

Thomas R. Phillips, Illinois Bell counsel, has predicted that if there is no increase in phone rates in 1975, the result will be a dramatically reduced earnings level that is totally inadequate to meet the demands of the Illinois public for continued, reliable telephone service in the future.

Phillips presented his statement at a late-March public hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission in Chicago.

He emphasized that one of the company's major objectives is to place as many rates as possible on services and equipment which are within the complete control of customers themselves.

Phillips noted that only about one-tenth of currently proposed increases would be applied to basic monthly service.

"Consequently," he said, "about 90 per cent of the proposed rate increases apply to optional services or to charges based on usage."

As examples he cited intrastate long distance and wide area telephone service (WATS) rates, charges for extensions and touch-tone phones, uniform message unit charges and reducing the initial period for multi-message unit calls.

"To do nothing more than stand still — to pay known costs in 1975 — will require a rate increase of about $65 million annually by August, Phillips said.

"Even with this proposed interim increase, 1975 earnings will not be at the level the commission found to be fair and reasonable in prior years.

"In not a single one of the five years from 1969 to 1973 did the company earn even the minimum rate of return found by this commission to be fair and reasonable."

Phillips said the company proposes to move toward pricing business telephone equipment in a way that separates the charges between line and phone equipment.

He also said the proposed rate changes would require that customers who make more use of particular services or facilities pay more for their proportionately greater use.

These proposals include a 20-cent charge for directory assistance (but each customer would get three free calls a month and disabled people would be exempted, timing local calls in Chicago and increasing local coin phone calls to 20 cents.

"Over the last 10 years," Phillips said, "General cost of living rose 59 per cent. Average Illinois Bell prices over the same 10-year period increased only 16 per cent."

"Even with the increases as proposed in our tariff filings in this case, Illinois Bell rates would be less than one-third higher than they were in 1964."

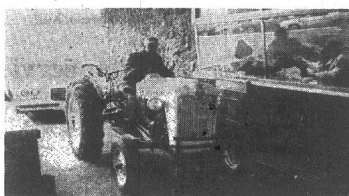

"Illinois Bell's 1974 earnings on a going basis at year-end were too low to produce a reasonable rate of return on the value of its property devoted to providing telephone service."

"The company is not earning an adequate return today, and its earnings have been too low for over six years. In fact, Illinois Bell has not even earned over time the rate of return found to be fair and reasonable by the commission."

"As this case progresses, the evidence will show that rate increases are necessary to produce the earnings level previously authorized and to provide revenue in the amount required to assure adequate, reliable, quality telephone service to the people of Illinois."

Farm workers unit plans more boycott activities

Plans for additional activities to aid the present boycott were discussed at the monthly meeting of the Farm Workers Support Committee at the home of Rick Brown, 2441B Edison Ave.

Miss Cathy Nola, Granite City area coordinator for the support group, outlined past accomplishments in picketing at liquor stores. She said most stores have cooperated and removed Gallo wines from their shelves, although some wines remain in coolers.

Each worker was assigned a liquor store to check periodically. The 12-mile "Justice for Farm Workers" march held in St. Louis was discussed. The United Farm Workers were accompanied by several Gallo officers and Teamster Union officials in a counter-march without incident. The UFW group maintains the freedom for grape vineyard workers to choose any union to represent them, it was explained.

Teamsters contend that they were legally named the bargaining representative for the farm workers.

The benefit dance April 19 at Polish Hall in Madison was discussed. Tickets were distributed. Tickets are $3 per person, including refreshments and entertainment by the Miguel Luna Orchestra. Farm Worker Week programs were presented. The week of May 4 is set aside as a nationwide public awareness week. Information booths will be set up at several points in this area. It was tentatively planned that an outdoor rally will close the week.

William Joseph Holman, 20, dies of bullet wound

William Joseph Holman, 20, of 1936 Fifth St., East Madison, was pronounced dead at his home at 9:55 p.m. Monday after suffering a bullet wound which members of his family said was self-inflicted.

Madison County sheriff's deputies were told Mr. Holman was holding a pistol and declined to lay it down. They said he had been drinking all day and may have been intoxicated.

It was related that he became angry and threw a shoe at a sister. His mother then said she planned to call the sheriff's department, and he turned the gun toward his chest and shot himself, authorities were told. The mother, two sisters and a brother were in the living room with him at the time and his father was in a rear room.

entered the left side of his chest and he collapsed in a living room chair. Family members ran to neighbor's home and telephoned for an ambulance and for deputies.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Edward Werner, Madison County deputy coroner. There will be an inquest.

A lifelong resident of the Quad-Cities, Mr. Holman was a member of the Baptist faith.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly (Maxine) Holman; two brothers, David and Michael Holman, both residing at home; and three sisters, Mary and Jaynie Holman, living at home, and Mrs. Carolyn Tucker of Fieldon, Ill.

Funeral services were held in Granite City today. Details are given in the obituary column.

Illinois Senate confirms Sasyk, Schuler, Shuff

State Sen. Sam M. Vadala, chairman of this district, chairman of the Committee on Executive Appointments and Administration, announced Tuesday at Springfield that his committee had cleared for confirmation three Illinois appointments to the Bi-State Development Commission.

The Senate then confirmed John E. Shuff Jr., Belleville News-Democrat publisher, with a term ending Jan. 19, 1978; Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, for a term ending Jan. 17, 1977; and Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, with a term ending Jan. 15, 1979.

"It would be hard to imagine a finer group of men to serve on this important commission," Sen. Vadala said. "It is ample evidence of their high qualification that their nominations moved with such speed through our committee. Their responsibilities will be difficult, touching on such important matters as port facilities and public transportation. I offer three of them my warm congratulations."

Scott acts to prevent Rock Island shutdown

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott moved Tuesday to prevent abandonment of Rock Island Railroad service in Illinois and to head off any dismemberment of the railroad.

He announced that he opposes an emergency rate increase requested by the railroad. He suggested that higher rates would turn users away from the Rock Island to other transportation, and lead to reduction of service on Rock Island lines.

In a statement submitted to a three-member division of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, Attorney General Scott urged "that all channels of relief for the Rock Island be explored prior to authorization of any substantial surcharge."

He suggested that the bankrupt railroad and the ICC first fully explore the possibility of financial assistance to the Rock Island under the Emergency Rail Services Act of 1970. "The act provides financial assistance for railroads that have declared bankruptcy."

The ICC hearing, before Commissioners Virginia May Brown, Dale W. Hardin and Robert J. Corber, was to consider the Rock Island's request for a rate surcharge of $30 per carload and $15 per piggyback trailer.

The railroad has served notice that it intends to cease operations April 12.

Scott, viewing the surcharge request as a prelude to abandonment of service, told the ICC members: "The Rock Island situation is of serious concern to the state of Illinois. It is inconceivable to me that a cash shortage should justify shutting down the entire Rock Island Railroad by means of an embargo."

Under federal law, it is up to the ICC Scott pointed out, "to determine what, if any, portion of a line should be abandoned, so as to retain or preserve the balance for continued operation."

"No railroad—even a carrier in bankruptcy—may discontinue service over a line of railroad without prior approval by the ICC, with an opportunity for the involved states and the public to be heard."

Scott noted that the Rock Island has made no application to the ICC for abandonment of service.

Scott declared, "I think a shutdown by the Rock Island should be avoided, and its lines should not be handed over to other railroads at this time."

The ICC issued a 1974 ICC decision setting forth a plan parceling out Rock Island lines to the Union Pacific and other railroads.

Scott said, "The public is being asked to suffer what seems to be, in essence, a classic war between rival railroads operating west out of Illinois."

THE HOUSE THE BOYS BUILT. The house at 2359 Clark St. built by students of Granite City High Schools North and South building trades classes is finished and ready for sale. A public "open house" will be held April 10 and 11 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. and from April 12 from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Student-built house to be shown for sale

Two years of work by students of the building trades classes of Granite City High School North and South has resulted in completion of a house at 2359 Clark Street.

The house will now be sold to the highest bidder by the Granite City Board of Education, which is reserving the right to reject any bid.

A public open house will be held Thursday and Friday, April 10 and 11, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., and on Saturday, April 12, from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. The house then will be shown by appointment by calling the Board of Education office, 876-6600.

The house is 36 feet by 60 feet, including a double carport. The house has no basement. It has three bedrooms, two complete baths, an L-shaped living room, dining room and a utility room.

temperature.

The kitchen has an electric range and dishwasher with a double well, stainless steel sink and cabinets.

The outside of the house is finished in avocado green aluminum siding and has six inches of insulation in the ceiling and three inches in the outside walls, with thermopane windows.

Any profit made from the sale of the house will be used in building a new house at No. 54 Bermuda Lane.

In addition to the building trades classes, students from the vocational drafting and electric classes and the home economics department worked on various phases of the house.

Mrs. Jo Meyer of the Illinois Power Co. assisted the students in choosing the carpeting, cabinets and color scheme.

REVIEW Of heroin trail and victims

Reviewed by ROBERT BETTS

The trail starts in Afton, a province of Turkey.

It is high, stark country where the soil is poor and capable of nourishing only the hardiest of crops.

Here is where, for hundreds of years, the opium poppy has been cultivated.

It is the staple of village life in this region. Its oil is a base for cooking; its leaves go into a traditional salad; its seeds are fed to livestock; its stalks are woven into cottage ceilings.

The only part the farmers do not use is the dark gum which oozes out of the poppy pods when they are cut. It congeals into the consistency of clay.

The villagers sell it either to the Turkish government for medicinal use, or — illegally — to certain buyers who are willing to pay considerably more for it.

So begins the long, tortuous underground journey, the stuff passing through the hands of smugglers, crooked chemists and drug traffickers operating on four continents. Along the way it is broken down into morphine bases, and eventually converted into heroin for sale on the streets of New York and other cities.

The route is traced in meticulous detail in this book, which is the result of a year's on-the-spot research by a team of investigative journalists.

Their reports, first published in a 32-part series in Newsday, won a 1974 Pulitzer Prize.

It is a thrilling account of a billion-dollar business built on bribery, blackmail, extortion and murder. It is a story of fantastic profits in which a kilo of powder of morphine base sells for $300 in Istanbul, goes for $1,100 in Marseille, and, converted into heroin and smuggled into the United States, brings $240,000 on the streets of New York.

There are interviews with narcotics agents and other government officials, meetings with smugglers, pushers and other drug dealers, personal closeups of big-time racketeers and other real-life characters who move in this vast, international underworld.

And there are descriptions of the addicts — "mainliners" who pump the stuff into their arms and who ultimately "die in the darkness of their bedrooms or in cars parked in the night, on old mattresses in cellars or on living room sofas, with needles and syringes found near their bodies."

They are the victims at the end of the heroin trail.

Mrs. Evelyn Veres, 54, dies

Mrs. Evelyn Florence "Evie" (Lancey) Veres, 54, of 3207 Carlton Ave., died at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis.

She was born in East St. Louis where she lived until moving to this area 10 years ago.

Mrs. Veres was employed as an operator at the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., East St. Louis, for 35 years.

She was a member of the Immanuel Evangelical Church, East St. Louis, and belonged to the Pioneers Club.

Survivors include her husband, Arthur Veres; her mother, Mrs. Florence Lancey, East St. Louis; a sister, Mrs. Martha (Ulliana) Salmon, Buffalo Grove, Ill.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

2 incumbents and 2 others on ballot in Venice Park District

JOHN F. MITCHELL

John F. Mitchell, 60, of 205 Hampden St., Venice, is seeking re-election for a fourth term on the Venice Park Board.

For the last three years, he has served as president of the board. He is an active member of the Venice Methodist Church and the Venice City Organization. Mitchell has been married 37 years to his wife, Alice, who is employed at the Venice Post Office. He has a married daughter, Jessie Tackaberry, living in Granite City and one granddaughter, Gail Tackaberry.

He is a retired switchman of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, having 38 years of service. A graduate of Venice High School, Mitchell has been a resident of Venice for 50 years.

"After serving 18 years on the Park Board, I feel I am most qualified for the job."

"During 1987, I was instrumental in getting a bond issue passed in order to build our present recreational building, which continues to serve many organizations and the people of Venice," Mitchell comments.

MRS. OLA MAE DANDRIDGE

Mrs. Ola Mae Dandridge seeks re-election to the Venice Park Board next Tuesday, April 1.

Four candidates have filed for two six-year board terms. Mrs. Dandridge, who resides at 1108 Market St., has served as a park commissioner for eight years.

A Venice resident 35 years, Mrs. Dandridge is active in the Quinlan Mission African Methodist Episcopal Church and assists with the church's youth group.

She and her husband, Louis, have a son, three daughters and one grandson.

Mrs. Dandridge believes Venice has "a good park board and a good park program."

She believes there is always "room for improvement" and stresses that the board is receptive to citizens' suggestions in regard to park facilities and recreational services.

MRS. VALETA BAUDER

One of the four Venice candidates running for two Park Board seats April 1 is Mrs. Valeta Bauder, 708 Third St.

A rate clerk for the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, she is the wife of Roderick L. Bauder, an employee of Granite City Steel. Their son, Roderick Bauder, a Venice police officer, is married to the former Mary Frances Lee, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Lee and the late Dr. John E. Lee, Venice mayor until his death.

Born in San Jose, Calif., the candidate has been a Venice resident 28 years. Her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bauder, reside in Venice.

She attended California schools, San Jose State College and Heald's Business College.

Mrs. Bauder is secretary of the Investigating Committee of the Venice Crippled Children's Organization.

She is a member of the citizens' group for the Venice Community Development Program and a lifetime member of the Alpha Iota sorority. She is a former member of the Eta chapter of Phi Tau Omega.

JOHN HENRY WILLIAMS

The four candidates for two Venice Park Board positions Tuesday, April 1, include John Henry Williams, 26, of 619 Washington St., Venice.

Born on Kerr Island, Venice, he is employed by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District as a sewage operator. Formerly he was a Madison Auxiliary Policeman, Famous & Barr security guard and Pinkerton Security Co. employee.

"I am a May 1966 graduate of Madison Senior High School and am now enrolled at the State Community College, studying to become a crime laboratory technician," Williams relates.

"Also, I am attending Madison Senior High School at night, enrolled in adult courses."

"I am a member of the New Salem Baptist Church, located in Venice, and my offices held there are deacon and superintendent of Sunday school."

"I am also a member of New Hope Lodge 22 of Madison. In the Free Accepted Ancient York Masons Prince Hall, I am a junior warder."

"I am also a member of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of York Masons, and a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Madison."

"I organized a Venice and Lovejoy bantam and midget baseball team in 1974. I managed the Bantam and midget team into the first-place championship."

"I organized these teams because no one else took the time out for the children of Venice who had no baseball team to play on," Williams says.

"I knew Venice had youngsters with potential and know-how. All they needed was for someone to obligate their time and help to get them organized."

"I am married and have four children, Reginald, 12, Debra, 10, John Jr., four and Sheldene, two. My wife is Emma Williams."

"The reason I am seeking office is that I have been working with children in the park for four years and I have suffered through trying to get equipment for the boys."

"There are not enough recreational programs in Venice. We need facilities not only for the boys but for girls and adults, also."

"I feel that every child should have proper recreational facilities in his community, and the best, the community can provide."

"I am a candidate for the city of Venice, not for one segment but for Venice as a whole."

Williams concludes, "I feel that the issue is that there is not enough communication between the Park Board and the citizens of Venice."

"There is no kind of year-around recreation. Most of the citizens don't know the park commissioners."

"If I am elected, I promise to work closely with each and every citizen."

"I will encourage the community to attend the meetings so that they can be informed and let us know what our park needs."
